MEMEL SURRENDERED BY LITHUANIA

Girl Without A Country

Adolf Hitler may have ruined a trip to America for this pretty maiden. She was to have been "Miss Czecho-Slovakia" at the New York World's Fair—but how can she represent a nation that no longer exists?

Baltic Territory Given Up Under Nazi Pressure

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 22—Germany and Rumania signed a trade treaty tonight. Rumanian officials jubilantly announced the country's "political and economic independence" had been preserved under the terms of the treaty. The details have not as yet been announced.

KAUNAS, March 22.—The republic of Lithuania surrendered Memel, the seaport she acquired after the Great War, to the advancing German reich today in answer to what semi-official sources said was a threat her entire state would be taken over if she did not comply.

Thus Germany got back a Baltic seaport she lost under the treaty of Versailles and Lithuania was left without one.

The semi-official newspaper Lietuvos Aidas said:

"In the face of dire necessity Lithuania was placed before the cruel dilemma—either transfer Memel to Germany or endanger the independence of the entire state."

BEST COURSE

Urging that the best possible course had been followed in capitulating to German pressure, the newspaper said:

"The German demand was based on farce and Lithuania must heroically submit."

An exchange telegraph agency dispatch from Warsaw to London said Germany had threatened aerial bombarment of Kaunas unless a propadanda ministry communique was withdrawn last night. The communique, subsequently withdrawn, had said no change in Memel's status could be made until consultations with foreign powers who in 1924 guaranteed Memel's integrity.

Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop tried to get the Lithuanian foreign minister, Joszas Urbsys, to sign a document making his nation a "protectorate" of Germany as Bohemia-Moravia became after Czecho-Slovakia's dissolution, the dispatch asserted. Urbsys refused, saying he was without authority to make such a sweping commitment.

HITLER WILL ENTER MEMEL BY SEA ROUTE

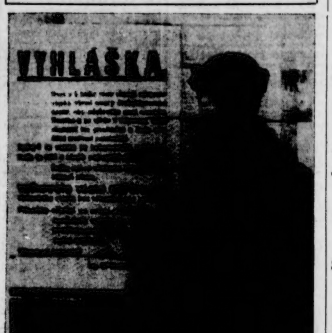

Chancellor Avoids Crossing Polish Corridor, Another Objective

SWINEMUENDE, Germany, March 22.—Chancellor Hitler, headed for Memel and Baltic acclaim, embarked in the battleship Deutschland tonight from this north German port. The Fuehrer is expected to reach Memel, his latest acquisition, about noon (4 a.m. M.S.T.) tomorrow. Reports which officials would neither confirm nor deny said German troops, moving from Tilsit, East Prussia, would enter Memel at 5 a.m. (9 p.m. Wednesday M.S.T.) tomorrow.

BERLIN, March 22—Chancellor Hitler left Berlin at 3:19 p.m. (7:19 M.S.T.) today, presumably en route to the board the battleship Deutschland at Swinemuende for a triumphal trip by sea to Memel, Germany's newly acquired Baltic seaport. By choosing this mode of travel the fuehrer will emphasize both Germany's growing power as a maritime nation and avoid crossing what may be an-

Nazi Germany Grabs Another Slice of Europe

LONDON, March 22.—Nazi Germany grabbed another thousand square miles of Europe today and left every power from the Atlantic to the Black Sea guessing where Hitler would strike next. The little state of Memel, another product of the Versailles Treaty, was handed over to the expanding Reich by Lithuania as the Nazis stuck up the Baltic coast with the same tactics—massed troops and an ultimatum that they used to destroy Czecho-Slovakia. Memel was little more than a crumb in the bites the Nazis have been taking out of the map of Europe.

SHANGHAI, March 22.—Japanese troops were reported en route yesterday to Weihow island and Haiilow, on the north coast of Hainan island, while 60 Japanese transports were understood to be moving southward from Shanghai in a long-heralded attack on the Pakhoi area.

Pakhoi is a town of 20,000 on the Gulf of Tonkin, in Kwangtung province, far down on the south China coast near French Indo-China. Hainan, of strategic importance to French communications in the Orient, was seized by Japanese some time ago.

Chinese advices said that an attack on the Pakhoi area was believed imminent.

Tension was high and martial law was in effect on the southwest coast of Kwantung and on the south coast of Lulchow peninsula, it was reported.

POWER FIRM EXECUTIVES ASKING PACT

Commissioners said they hoped to arrange a meeting next week. Officials of the company present were G. H. Thompson, Calgary, manager of the company, and G. A. Gaherty, Montreal, president of the Montreal Engineering Company.

It is expected that the company's offer will be based on a recent proposal that the city buy one-third of its requirements each year at one-third of a cent per kilowatt.

LOS ANGELES, March 22—One thousand Americanized Germans, who claimed their action represented the sentiments of a majority of naturalized Germans in this country, demanded of President Roosevelt and congress yesterday the removal of Capt. Fritz Wiedmann as Nazi consul general of San Francisco.

They also demanded that immediate action be taken against the German-American Bund for its alleged un-American activities.

At a mass meeting in Hollywood they authorized the sending of a protest to Mr. Roosevelt and congress in the name of the German-American League for Culture, a nation-wide organization claiming 85,000 members.

HITLER ASKS AIR BASES IN ICELAND

Island's Coast Is Only 542 Miles From North Scotland

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, March 22.—Germany has asked the right to establish air bases on Iceland territory, Premier Hermann Jonasson informed the "althing" (parliament) today.

Premier Jonasson said Germany invoked old treaties, declaring the most-favored-nation clause entitled it to build air bases on the island.

He declared Iceland could not grant Germany rights not accorded to any other nation and said the issue would be taken up when the German cruiser Emden comes here for a scheduled visit.

SOVEREIGN STATE

Iceland is a sovereign state associated with Denmark through their allegiance to a common crown, King Christian X ruling both countries. It was originally independent and then for seven centuries remained under Norwegian and Danish rule until 1918, when it received its present status.

Iceland's coast is 542 miles from the north coast of Scotland and a little over 1,000 miles from London.

POLAND HALTS AT SIGNING OF ANTI-NAZI PACT

Russia Still Pressing For Conference Of Powers

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 22.—Poland is hesitating about signing an anti-aggression pact aimed at Germany, delaying the whole plan, it was learned here today.

In addition Russia still is pressing for a conference of the powers and this suggestion may yet be accepted by Great Britain and France as a way out of the difficulty.

Great Britain and France have reached an agreement on the form of the declaration, which would be a diplomatic warning against further acts of aggression by Chancellor Hitler.

It is understood Poland is not willing to desert her traditional policy of fence straddling as between Russia and Germany, her immediate neighbors. The Poles regard the proposed declaration as deffinitely committing them to line up with Russia against Germany—a profound change of policy.

French-Italian Reconciliation Hinted In Paris

PARIS, March 22.—A French friend of Premier Mussolini who knew him when both were Socialists, came from Rome today on a secret mission, arousing reports that conversations were underway for a French-Italian reconciliation.

Hubert Lagardelle, a writer who has maintained his old personal friendship with Il Duce, arrived on the Rome-Paris express today.

Friends of Lagardelle indicated he might carry proposals for settlement of the French-Italian quarrel back to Mussolini.

The French ambassador to Rome, Andre-Francois-Poncet, was reported to have communicated to Paris a belief that Italy would agree to negotiations with France if early overtures were made.

HONOR GUARD BY MILITARY FOR ROYALTY

Edmonton Fusiliers, 19th Alberta Dragoons On Duty Here

Guard of honor for Their Majesties during their stay in the city will be provided by the Edmonton Fusiliers and the 19th Alberta Dragoons, Brigadier G. R. Pearkes, officer commanding military district number 13, told the Royal Visit committee Wednesday.

Brigadier Pearkes estimated "he would be able to place at the disposal of the committee 1,000 uniformed men under arms for the purpose of lining the route of the Royal Progress," said Chairman P. W. Abbott, K.C.

In addition, there will be representatives of ex-servicemen's associations that also will be along the route.

If a state dinner is held, the escort and guard of honor will again accompany the King and Queen, it was announced.

Tenders for construction of bleachers close Saturday afternoon, Mr. Abbott said. The committee will then make public the cost of reserving bleacher seats.

Gratification at the response shown by Edmonton citizens to the appeal to order their seats quickly was voiced by Mr. Abbott who again echoed his reminder that "first come will be first served."

As an example of the interest being taken, Mr. Abbott said that S. Grimwood, of 11004 107 street, has already ordered 17 seats, including 14 for friends from Glenevis, Brightview and Peace River.

Court Informed Jobbers Against Poker Hands, Papers In Purchases

Western Canada tobacco jobbers in convention at Regina in October, 1933, urged by resolution that the manufacturers discontinue the policy of giving away poker hands, cigarette papers and premiums of any kind, and asked the manufacturers to very seriously consider the elimination of all such premiums and the passing of the saving to the retail trade.

This was disclosed at the preliminary hearing of charges of a tobacco combine before Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C., Wednesday morning.

The session was occupied with the filing of documentary evidence seized at the offices of the Southern Alberta Tobacco Jobbers' Association offices in Calgary.

Friends of The Duke Of Windsor, Alberta Branch Now Formed

Formation of an Alberta branch of the "Friends of the Duke of Windsor in America", an organization which is launching a world-wide campaign to draft the ex-king as "Ambassador-at-Large for Democracy and Peace", is announced from New York headquarters of the organization.

According to the New York announcement the president of the Alberta branch is P. H. Ashby of the R. D. Ranch, South Alberta, who described the organization meeting of the Alberta branch to the New York headquarters in a letter quoted from New York as follows:

When I reached the hall there were fifty people present to hear me. Some had driven ten to twenty miles in their sleighs. The temperature was 25 degrees below zero. I spoke for two and a half hours and arrived home at 6:45 a.m. the following morning. I spoke to them of Edward. I asked for a vote appointing him Ambassador-at-Large for Democracy and Peace. There was no hint, however, that the possibility of cancellation of the trip has been discussed in any responsible quarter.

NEW REVENUE SOURCES URGED FOR WINNIPEG

Royal Commission Report Frowns On City Manager Plan

WINNIPEG, March 22.— As steps toward eliminating Winnipeg's $1,000,000 deficit, the Golden-berry Royal Commission report recommended opening of new revenue sources, additional contributions from the two main railways but frowned on proposals for the city manager form of administration.

The report, tabled in the Manitoba legislature today, was the result of a study of civic finances by a commission headed by H. Carl Goldenberg, Montreal authority on municipal government.

ALREADY OPERATING

In rejecting city manager proposals, the report declared the commission found reforms accomplished in other areas by this form of civic government had been in operation in Winnipeg for some time.

Large tax exemptions granted the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways came under review with the report questioning an agreement entered into in 1881 with the C.P.R. regarding sums to be paid the city. It was unfair, the report said, for Winnipeg taxpayers to carry the burden of caring for railway employees when they are forced on relief by temporary lay-offs and, therefore, recommended steps toward collecting more revenue from the railways.

BALANCE BUDGET

The report urged that the city's annual sinking fund instalment of approximately $1,300,000 be transferred to ordinary budget purposes whereby the civic budget would be balanced and no new taxes required. Transfer of sinking fund instalments would be made through establishment of a fund to be called the Debt Redemption Equalization Fund.

Under this idea, interest could be paid on civic debts in full each year, the report said.

The report declared the city's sinking fund was now able to carry itself, and no longer required yearly contributions from taxpayers. The capital of the fund which will accumulate sufficient in the future to meet all maturities of city bonds, must be left intact, however.

was raised amid cheers. I have never seen such enthusiam in all my life."

Another good story is also related from the New York headquarters about the Duke's sojourn in Austria prior to his marriage.

CASE OF SCOTCH

"In big headlines the Vienna newspapers carried a report that the Duke's favorite horse, a white charger, would shortly arrive in Vienna, as the Duke had telegraphed for it. The horse was minutely described and one magazine ran a picture of the famous charger. Later it was discovered that what the Duke had telegraphed was an order for a case of White Horse Whiskey."

Duke Of Windsor Plans Trips Abroad

British United Press, Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

PARIS, March 22.—The Duke of Windsor was said by his friends to have made his plans for voyages abroad in 1939—including a possible trip to America—dependent upon the activities of his brother, King George VI.

Associates said no date had been fixed either for the return of the former monarch to England or for his long-planned trip to the United States, but is was understood the Duke and Duchess still hoped to make the journey to America.

Any major journey would depend largely upon the convenience of King George, but that is due to a voluntary decision by the Duke to avoid any embarrassment to his brother such as might have occurred if the Windsors had gone to the Americas before George and the Queen go.

The original plans for a tour of America by the Duke and Duchess —The former Wallis Warfield of Baltimore—in 1938 were cancelled by the Duke after consulting with his close American friends long before King George decided to make his trip.

The Duke's relationship with the King remains close, his friends say, despite the fact that the former Monarch's desire to have the title of Royal Highness conferred on his wife has never been granted.

LEAMINGTON, England, March 22.—Anthony Eden last night told his constituents here that "if the present methods in Europe are allowed to continue unchecked, we are heading straight for anarchy and for universal tragedy which will involve us all."

In what was regarded as an implied bid for Russian aid to prevent further aggression, the former foreign secretary said "It is no affair of ours whether a government is black or white, pink or red in its domestic policy."

Mr. Eden advocated an alignment of anti-aggressionist nations.

Great Britain "must be prepared for the sacrifices needed to enable our country to make maximum contribution" toward preserving peace, the former foreign secretary declared.

He predicted the British nation would be compelled sooner or later to call a truce to party politics, and "it would be better sooner than later," he said.

"We can only succeed," he continued, "if we as a people display the same quality of imaginative leadership and resolute action as our ancestors did when faced with a like challenge."

other objective before long—the Polish Corridor.

Hitler left Berlin shortly after Lithuania capitulated to German pressure and agreed to cede the Germanic territory acquired in the post-war settlements, back to Germany.

Memelmuende is Germany's Baltic sea-base 120 miles north of Berlin.

The chancellor presumably left in the hands of his foreign minister, Joachin Von Ribbentrop, dealings with a delegation of three Lithuanian cabinet ministers due here at 6 p.m. (10 a.m. M.S.T.).

ARRANGE DETAILS

They are to arrange details of the transfer of Memel back to Germany and give it legal form.

His new acquisition came to him on a Lithuanian platter without so much as a distant rumbling of effective opposition—the Memel district of 1,099 square miles inhabited by 150,000 persons, mostly German.

Nazi leaders of the former German free city of Danzig expressed fears they might have difficulty in restraining a population that expects its "liberation" to come on the heels of that of Memel.

Concern was expressed in Poland, which next to Lithuania is most vitally affected by the new German acquisition, both because of her proximity to the territory and because of implications for Danzig, which lies at the head of the Polish Corridor separating East Prussia from the rest of Germany.

Reliable opinion in Berlin, however, was that the Polish Corridor was not on the list of additions to be made in the immediate future to the expanding Reich.

ADD SEAPORT

In acquiring Memel, Hitler, for the first time since he came to power in 1933, has added a seaport to Germany. For a seafaring nation this is an important item. More than 1,200 vessels totalling almost 700,000 tons, call at Memel annually. Lithuania alone ships 85 per cent. of her exports through this harbor. Under German administration, much German trade undoubtedly also will be routed through there.

It may also be expected Hitler will not overlook the possibility of Memel as a submarine base. His domination of the Baltic will thus be enhanced and Russia will be just that much closer.

Besides acquiring a strip of territory consisting chiefly of agricultural and timber land, Hitler becomes master over a population that is industrious, hard working, and hardened. It consists chiefly of lumberjacks, farmers and fishermen.

Vegreville Man Chosen Chairman Grit Nominators

The convention will be attended by leaders of Young Liberal groups throughout Canada and will be addressed by Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, party leader and Prime Minister of Canada.

Main business of the convention will be the discussion of national problems and the program the party offers to meet them, Mr. Horton said.

9, 1932, at which it was stressed that the closest co-operation was needed to meet circumstances when "so many outside artificial and hold up men were abroad. Our very financial existence is dependent on co-operation," the minutes recorded.

H. J. Wilson, K.C., crown counsel, presented minutes of a meeting of the association held at Regina, Sask., on October 25 and 26, 1933 a resolution was passed to be forwarded to all tobacco manufacturers that "the time was opportune owing to the increased direct selling to the retail tobacco trade by the various tobacco manufacturers that they be asked to discontinue this practice, and to market their products through the jobbing trade as the most economical system of distribution."

ADJUST POINTS

The manufacturers' representatives at the meeting requested they be given until November 20 in which to give a definite reply to the request and also that the jobbers appoint a committee with power to act in their behalf to consult with the manufacturers on their representatives to adjust any points that may arise as a result of the request.

The manufacturers' representative requested that, in the event of their agreeing, the jobbers would accept as their own the product of any manufacturer not meeting the new conditions, this to include shippers of leaf tobacco. They also asked that the jobbers agree on a definite margin to be allowed the jobber in the selling prices.

Other matters discussed at this meeting were direct accounts, jobbers' margin of profit, terms on tobacco and cigarettes, lines to retailers and the question of premiums, free deals, poker hands, cigarette papers, etc.

10 PER CENT

It was requested that manufacturers seriously consider billing jobbers at list price less 10 per cent. and if this was not possible immediately to allow jobbers at least 10 per cent on resale.

Dealing with premiums, poker hands and cigarette papers the association went on record that on account of the very small margin of profit now being allowed retailers, that very strong disapproval of the giving away of poker hands, cigarette papers, premiums of every kind be voiced and asked that manufacturers seriously consider eliminating all such premiums and arrange to increase the profit to the retailers.

This meeting decided also that new jobbers be added to the list in western Canada without reference to the Western Association.

UNIFORM PROCEDURE

It was also decided to request the manufacturers to take all matters of general policy with the secretary of the western association in order that general procedure may be as uniform as possible.

Amongst the documents filed by Mr. Wilson were the minutes of a meeting of the Southern Association at which a new tobacco agreement was outlined by J. M. O'Brien, sales manager of the Imperial Tobacco Co. of Canada Ltd. This meeting was held at Calgary on November 16, 1934.

The new agreement, according to the minutes, was explained clause by clause by the Imperial Tobacco company's executive.

TERMS

Under the agreement's terms the free giving of any unit of matches or anything else not being a part of the container of tobacco, or cigarettes and leaves the manufacturer was to be construed as an infraction of the selling agreement, but the handing to a customer of one or two matches out of a box would not be construed an infraction.

This agreement set out the restrictions of sale to persons either than legitimate retailers, institutions and canteens. Organizations were permitted to determine the institutions to be sold in their territory.

Canteen accounts under the agreement covered contractors operating a commissary department for the benefit of the employees, while it was set out that jobbers were not entitled to sell to retailers not holding a tobacco selling license who might be purchasing for their own use.

RATIO OF PROFIT

The agreement called also that the price of import lines be arranged by each association to be sold at not less than the same ratio of profit, and price agreed upon.

Questioned relating to a paragraph in the minutes in which it was stated that the jobbers could rely upon the support of the manufacturers in any steps they might take to put the new agreement into effect. William Walt, secretary of the association, did not know whether Mr. O'Brien gave that assurance to the meeting, or whether the paragraph was a general expression of opinion.

Jobbers Oppose Discount Policy

Trading policy of Macdonalds Consolidated Ltd., a jobbing firm, to give retailers a five per cent discount when cash, and the policy of W. C. Macdonald Incorporated, manufacturer, to give a two per cent cash discount to western customers adopted in July, 1929, was met by united opposition from firms representing the western jobbing trade, evidence at the tobacco combine preliminary hearing disclosed Tuesday.

The discount policies of the jobbing and manufacturing companies were discussed at a meeting of jobbers at Calgary at which it was decided to refuse to handle products manufactured by Macdonald Incorporated until the company agreed to eliminate the discount and set a resale price to retailers insuring a minimum 10 per cent deferential for jobbers, according to documentary evidence adduced.

Macdonalds Consolidated Company was struck off the jobbers' list of manufacturing firms following representations, made at this meeting, that the company was not maintaining the prevailing price standard.

Protest against the discount policy was telegraphed to Macdonald Incorporated in which it was stated that western jobbers would not do business with the company unless an eight-point resolution formulated at the meeting governing sales price policy was adopted.

Considerable telegraphic negotiations were carried on between the manufacturing company, its western sales representative, W. L. McKenzie Ltd., and the jobbers which resulted in acceptance of the major requests made by the jobbers.

NET PROFIT

George J. Cameron, president of W. L. McKenzie Co., agreed that the company would issue jobbers' minimum net cash lists based on approximately three per cent less than resale prices, it being agreed that if the discount allowed was discontinued that a new resale list would be issued to give the jobber a net profit of 10 per cent ex-Montreal.

Co-operation under the terms of the telegrams was not to be promised, and the company agreed to strike permanently from their jobbing list any firm splitting shipments or giving discounts.

The company agreed also to accept recommendations of the jobbers' policy committee, but reserved the right to make independent investigation before accepting recommendations.

DIRECT ACCOUNTS

The company agreed also to revert to its direct accounts on its list prior to adoption of the discount policy, and also that after a fixed date it would not place on its list in the four western provinces any more direct accounts than either the Imperial Tobacco Company or Tuckets Ltd. It agreed also to submit proof from time to time, when required, of the number of direct accounts it was supplying.

Immediate discontinuance of the policy of direct supply and cash discount to the retail trade was agreed to by the company.

Western jobbers were advised by the Calgary meeting to accept the proposals agreed to by the W. L. McKenzie Company, it being intimated in telegrams sent jobber associations that assurance had been received that the distributing firm was working along instructions from the manufacturing company.

WOEFUL SITUATION

During negotiations between jobbers and the W. L. McKenzie Co. Ltd. telegrams were sent by the jobbers to the W. C. Macdonald Incorporated that a woeful situation existed amongst the jobbers as a result of the company's discount policy.

The jobber associations also telegraphed their members to stand firm against Macdonald Incorporated products one telegram containing the term "a backslider now may cause a landslide later in our ranks."

AMENDMENTS TO WAGE ACT ARE BEFORE HOUSE

Amendments to the Male Minimum Wage Act now before the legislature include extension of provisions to include all kinds of employees with the exception of farm laborers and domestic servants.

It is provided in one section of the amending bill, which is being piloted through the house by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, provincial secretary and minister of trade and industry, that "this act shall apply to all persons in the province who are employees, except persons who are farm laborers or domestic servants, who are employed in any capacity under any agreement, whether oral or in writing, or whether expressed or implied, by which the relationship of master and servant is created between such person and the person by whom he is employed."

The amending legislation also includes a new definition of overtime as follows:

"Overtime means any time worked by an employee: (1) During any one day in excess of 10 hours or during any time which is not included in the hours of work prescribed pursuant to the Hours of Work Act as the normal hours of work in a day for any such employee; and (2) During any one week in excess of 54 hours or during any time which is not included in the hours of time prescribed pursuant to the Hours of Work Act as the normal hours of work in a week for any such employee." It is also provided that a minimum wage be fixed for overtime, also that wage periods be prescribed.

CANADIAN SELLS HALF SHARE IN SWEEP TICKET

BELLEVILLE, Ont., March 22.—"A bird in the hand is worth two of a horse going over a fence" says Fred Ritchie, worker in the Cordova Mines of North Hastings County.

So yesterday he accepted the offer of $4,000 by a New York syndicate for a half-share in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes ticket he holds on Under Bid, a 32-to-1 shot in Friday's Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree.

If Under Bid comes home in front, bringing him a half-share of the £150,000 first prize, Ritchie will build a "little home out here and enjoy life hunting and fishing."

It is 1,500 miles from the coast of Labrador.

The coastline of Iceland is 3,730 miles longg. Owing to the rigors of its climate, only about one-quarter of its 40,437 square miles is inhabited by its population, which totals a little more than 100,000.

LEGISLATIVE POWER

It was in 1918 that Denmark recognized Iceland as a sovereign state, united with it under the rule of the Danish king. The legislative power rests with the Althing, oldest parliamentary assembly in the world, having existed for more than 1,000 years. The Althing has 14 members in the Upper House and 28 in the Lower House.

While according to the act of union there are no real joint affairs between Denmark and Iceland, the former country, provisionally until 1940, is in charge of the foreign affairs of Iceland as its mandatory. By agreement, either the Danish or Icelandic parliamentary body can call for negotiations concerning revision of the union act after December 31, 1940.

claimed throughout Lithuania shortly after the government announced formally the return to Germany of the Baltic territory of Memel.

The Lithuanian cabinet announced the return of Memel—1,099 square miles of territory with 150,000 mostly German population—early this morning.

German storm troop formations and Memel Nazis at once began taking over public buildings, the radio station and other posts in the city of Memel, which has been Lithuania's only port.

The regular troops of the German army, however, apparently had not yet crossed the frontier.

The Lithuanian parliament in an emergency session this morning approved the cession of Memel.

The official Lithuanian announcement said: "The cession of Memel, which has been forced on the Lithuanians, has depressed the population but there is determination to fight for the independence of Lithuania herself.

The German storm troopers halted the frenzied flight of Jews and other refugees from the territory.

The Lithuanian army began gradual evacuation of Memel.

The state of emergency declared by the government resembles martial law. Official said one reason it was proclaimed was to facilitate withdrawal of the Lithuanian troops.

The Lithuanian government, by its decision to surrender Memel, made it plain it did not expect any help from the signatories of the Memel convention. This convention was signed May 8, 1924, by Lithuania, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan. It placed the territory under Lithuanian sovereignty but with a large measure of local autonomy.

The decision to hand back Memel to Germany followed a day of intense diplomatic activity. The British charge d'affaires, T. H. Preston, was among callers at the Foreign Ministry yesterday.

Nazi Aryanization Drive Being Pushed Hard And Many Suicides Felt

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE, JR.
British United Press, Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin

PRAGUE, March 22. — Nazis pushed their Aryanization drive in Bohemia and Moravia Monday, and suicides continued.

Five days after its seizure, Prague seemed to foreign correspondents, to whom reports trickled through of emergency cabinet meetings and growing tension elsewhere, the quietest spot in Europe.

Three hundred Jews who had the papers necessary to enter England were hiding out in cellars and nearby woods, fearing last minute arrest.

A Nazi concentration camp was opened at Kanovice, 18 miles from Prague. Reported arrests included Dr. Klepetak, managing editor of the Prager Tageblatt and Professor Kazak of Prague University.

Kazak was a close friend of former president Eduard Benes.

SHOPS SMASHED

It was learned that Jewish shops had been smashed in Bruenn and that Jews had been molested on the streets. Three hundred Jewish doctors, it was reported, were given three days to terminate their practice, regardless of the nature of their cases. Anti-Semites burned down a synagogue at Burenn.

Czechs were cold to Nazi show. What few complaints there were in Prague touched instances of German or Sudeten Nazis who molested small shopkeepers or confronted people in the streets, demanding to see their credentials.

BOYCOTT FREE FOOD

The Czechs boycotted the free food distributed in the city for needy by a cavalcade of trucks which toured the Reich handing out provisions and propaganda. Czech sources asserted those who availed themselves of free food were chiefly Sudeten Germans.

They snubbed yesterday one of the most impressive military parades that Nazi Germany ever has staged—part of the "army day" celebration that is observed throughout the Reich.

A crowd of little more than 5,000 —roughly half the number of troops that poured down Wenzels Platz — stood silently on the curbs.

NONE JUBILANT

There was none of the jubilant demonstrations to which German troops are accustomed in the homeland. At least half the crowd seemed to be Nazis, either Sudeten or German. They carried little paper flags which the German propaganda organization had distributed free.

Behind the crowd on the curb, Sunday sidewalk strollers went about their business. They did not bother to look at the goose-stepping troops.

Calgary City 1938 Surplus Is $93,499

CALGARY, March 22—The city of Calgary closed out its 1938 general account Tuesday with a surplus of $93,499 after allowing for a street railway deficit of $58,554. At the end of 1937 the surplus totalled $87,902.

Revenues were $48,743 in excess of estimated revenue and expenditures were $38,853 less than anticipated costs for 1938. Saving of $29,858 in the relief department and tax penalties of $34,949 in excess of estimated collections provided the chief surplus factors.

Flier Killed

GOSPORT, England, March 22.—Lieut. D. D. O'Brien was killed Tuesday when the plane he was piloting crashed at Gosport airfield. Sub - Lieut. C. H. C. O'Rourke, a passenger in the plane, was slightly injured. Both men were attached to the Royal Air Force unit here.

COMMITTEE TO HOLD MEETING ON ACCOUNTS

House Adopts Resolution To Consider Public Expenditures

Meeting of the public accounts committee to inquire into details of expenditures made and liabilities incurred by or under the direction of the Alberta Social Credit Board, was approved by the legislature on Monday, a resolution to this effect, moved by J. W. Hugill, K.C., Independent, Calgary, was approved by the house.

The resolution also advocated approval of the house for inquiry into any other matter arising out of the activities of the board and the executive council insofar as the board was concerned.

In moving his motion, Mr. Hugill pointed out that he was not making any charge.

Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, declared that a meeting of the committee by way of resolution, as was being done, was usually only done when a misappropriation charge was being laid and if no charge was being laid, then he thought the resolution out of order.

NO OBJECTION

Mr. Low contended that he had no objection to the public accounts committee being convened at any time if there was reason for such a meeting. He declared that although Nova Scotia and Nebraska were quoted as examples of fine public accounting, he declared that "Alberta has the reputation for giving more information than most governments of Canada and the United States." He pointed out that in addition to the information in the public accounts, there were plenty of opportunities for obtaining information on special warrants, from various reports submitted to the legislature and from ministers.

He said that if there was any information unavailable to a member, all that member had to do was to come to his office and the information would be given, and he challenged members to show one case where such information had been denied.

"There is not a province in Canada that budgets for an overall save Alberta," he said.

He pointed out that in Nova Scotia, he knew personally that "there is no such thing as a balanced budget."

ALBERTA PARTICULAR

True, he said, a balanced budget was shown on current account, but then, a deficit of several millions on capital account was shown.

"We are very particular how we keep our accounts here and we aim to give a true picture. If desired information is not available in the accounts, come to my office and you will get it."

Mrs. Edith Rogers, S.C., Ponoka declared that in 1936, Nova Scotia borrowed $11,000,000 for highways and a gas tax of 10 cents a gallon was collected. There was a $100,000,000 debt there on which the annual full interest bill amounted to $5,000,000.

Moving his motion, Mr. Hugill said the house had spent a week passing estimates and it was the members' duty to see where the money went.

He said that one Social Credit party platform plank was elimination of the enormous waste of taxpayers' money. The public accounts committee was to keep a check on it.

He directed attention to Nova Scotia public accounts as an example of how they should be kept and said these gave a break-down of various expenditures, which save a lot of work for the public accounts committee.

Mr. Low: "Is he discussing the resolution? It is my understanding that the committee can be called on specific charges of misappropriation."

Mr. Speaker Peter Dawson: "That is my interpretation."

NO CHARGES

Mr. Hugill replied by stating that he was not making any charges and he asked for a withdrawal of the minister's remarks.

J. J. Bowlen, Liberal, Calgary, asked if it was not possible for the committee to meet without specific charges being made.

D. M. Duggan, Alberta Conservative leader said that when the public accounts were tabled in the house by the provincial treasurer, it was usual to refer them to the public accounts committee. This was not in connection with making charges, but merely for investigation.

Mr. Hugill said that when R. J. Magor of Montreal was acting as financial adviser to the government in the fall of 1936 and early part of 1937 he appeared before the public accounts committee in 1936 and he thought this was quite right.

He felt that the appropriations for the Social Credit board should be subject to review by the members and he thought the public accounts committee should function while estimates were under consideration.

James Hansen, Independent, Taber, said the resolution required no explanation. It merely sought information and it would be of value to those on the opposition side of the house who did not have the same opportunity to obtain information as did government members.

TURNED DOWN

Mr. Bowlen declared that in 1937 he had made a request for a meeting of the public accounts committee and this had been refused, but later the same purpose for which he sought this meeting brought about a royal commission investigation. He charged that information had been refused by the government.

Mr. Low: "Can you give one specific instance where a question about expenditures was not answered?"

Mr. Bowlen: "Just wait. Don't get excited." Later he said that information regarding speed warrants had not been given. He thought the resolution worthy of being passed by the house.

Mr. Duggan said the resolution embodied one principle, that of whether the committee should be called together. The committee controlled all matters placed before it and any deemed unworthy of attention, could be rejected. He thought the government would be ill-advised to reject the resolution.

Mr. Duggan deplored any action which might result in loose talk outside the house and said that many such statements might be made if those making them felt they were unlikely to be called before the public accounts committee to prove their statements. He was in accord with Mr. Low that no province gave so much information on public accounts as Alberta. In addition, there was the quarterly statement.

Charles Cockroft, Independent, Stettler urged adoption of the resolution, stating the government would be well advised to agree to it more for its own protection than for any attack that it might bring about.

J. H. Unwin, S.C., Edson said that while he proposed to support the resolution, he felt its purpose was not to obtain information but to spread propaganda.

U.S. Planning To Tax Profits Out Of War By Drastic Income Law

WASHINGTON, March 22— Legislation designed to "tax the profits out of war" by a drastic stepup in income taxes was introduced in the United States Congress Tuesday by 50 senators and four representatives.

Senator Bone (Democrat-Washington) who offered the senate the bill bearing more than enough signatures to pass it through that chamber said the legislation would "make it impossible for any human being to profiteer in case of war."

Bone explained that, in case of war, levies on individual incomes would range as high as 93 per cent of net income in excess of $20,000, with a similar setup in corporation income.

The bill was entitled "To tax the profits out of war by steeply graduated income and other taxes, in order to provide for an effective national defense, to promote peace, to encourage actual neutrality, to discourage war profiteering, to distribute the burdens of war, and to keep democracy alive."

ACCUSED ENTERS APPEAL HERE IN PERJURY RULING

Appeal was entered Tuesday afternoon by W. S. Plawliuk, Lamont, against conviction and six-month sentence imposed by Mr. Justice W. C. Ives on a charge of conspiring to commit perjury.

Plawliuk, a former Edmonton court house interpreter, was found guilty Tuesday morning of conspiring with Nick Chechnita, Lamont, Pauline Winpinski, formerly Pauline Chechnita and Michael Winpinski to make a statement which would amount to perjury if made in judicial proceedings.

The charge arose out of attempts to obtain a marriage certificate for Pauline Chechnita. An application made to Donald Mackie, registrar of vital statistics at Edmonton, was refused because the girl was under 16 years.

A few days later, according to evidence adduced, application was made to the marriage license issuer at Lamont for a license, the girl on this occasion giving her age as 16. The license was issued, and it was stated by witnesses that Plawliuk had suggested the making of the false statement. It was also stated that he received $40 for obtaining the certificate.

The appeal against sentence and conviction was filed by G. B. O'Connor, K.C., and is taken on the ground that evidence against the accused was insufficient to sustain the conviction.

RELIEF MEASURE NOW RATIFIED BY LEGISLATURE

The new Bureau of Relief and Public Welfare act was passed through the committee of the whole assembly on Tuesday and now stands ready for third reading and royal assent by His Honor Lt. Gov. J. C. Bowen.

Prior to reaching port at the end of committee discussion, the legislature defeated several proposed amendments.

The bill provides that special consideration will be given war veterans when municipalities require relief work to be done.

A section was added limiting the work to five days in a month.

Efforts to amend the section providing for deduction of earnings from relief allowances were made, but the section passed unchanged.

This section states that the amount of relief could be reduced by the amount of earnings of the person and members of his immediate family.

The objective sought was to assure that homes would be maintained. When an amendment that the section be made to read "Members of his immediate family resident in that home" was proposed, it was quickly killed when members declared it might lead to breaking up homes.

The penalty for giving false information or concealing information or contravening the act was left at $100 fine or three months in jail.

Ramsay Complains Of Treatment By Grain Witnesses

VANCOUVER, March 22—Chairman E. B. Ramsay of the board of grain commissioners commented during the commission's second day of hearings here Tuesday that "never in my 10 years' experience on grain boards have I been treated by witnesses as I have here."

The chairman spoke after William Morrison, a witness subpoenaed by Mayor Lyle Telford of Vancouver to appear before the commission, tried to tell the commission what he thought should be admissible evidence.

Quebec Organizations Express Opposition To Canada Going To War

MONTREAL, March 22.—A telegram expressing "absolute opposition" of Quebec province to Canadian participation in a foreign war was sent Tuesday to Prime Minister King by representatives of a group of French-Canadian societies after an "emergency meeting."

The telegram said delegates to the meeting were "alarmed" at declarations of the Prime Minister, R. J. Manion, Conservative leader, Premier Hepburn of Ontario and a resolution introduced into the Ontario legislature, and added they considered "all expressions of solidarity with London on European affairs extremely dangerous to national unity and contrary to Canadian interests and to the country's free status."

The message was signed by the St. Jean Baptiste Society of Montreal "in the name of the St. Jean Baptiste Societies of Quebec and Ontario," and by a La Ligue D'Action Nationale, the Catholic Farmers' Union, the French Canadian Young Patriots, the Canadian Confederation of Catholic Workers, the Central Council of the National Catholic Syndicates of Montreal, the Alliance of Catholic Professions of Montreal and the Catholic Association of French-Canadian Youth.

IF IT WILL HELP ALBERTA THE EDMONTON BULLETIN IS FOR IT

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 22, 1939

Ready, Aye, Ready!

In his statement to parliament Monday on the international situation, Prime Minister King was temperate in language. Like the address of Mr. Chamberlain on Friday, it was the statement of a man surprised and bewildered by the treachery of Hitler, concerned as to whether the events of last week are the beginning of another drive for world power, and anxious to know how the democratic nations can best act together to avert the implied menace—and in the event protect themselves against onslaught.

Little new information was given regarding the Czech outrage, because there is little to give; the cruel facts are only too well known. No definite course of future action was recommended, because the Governments of Britain and France had not said what courses they intend to pursue. Parliament was assured the Government would consult with these and other interested Governments and make known any decisions which may be reached.

That is as far as the head of the Government of Canada could go in the circumstances. The response was what it should be. Leaders of all groups agreed in denouncing the destruction of Czecho-Slovakia, and seeing therein a threat to every other country within reach of Nazi power and too weak to defend itself. Parliament in that reflected public opinion, beyond any doubt.

Europe's Substitute

Figures published at Moscow show the peace-time strength of the Russian army to be 2,500,000 men, and their equipment to include 9,000 war planes. In a European country the unemployed surplus are put in uniform and called a standing army. In Canada they go on the relief list. That is why European governments are able to boast they have no unemployment problem. Canada would not have an unemployment problem either if it was located alongside potential enemies and had to keep scores of thousands of young and fit men toting rifles around the country, and other scores of thousands working on munitions.

The population of Europe is about 47 times that of Canada. If the Dominion had 90,000 men under arms and as many more making munitions for them there would be no fully employable men on relief in this Dominion. And the proportion under arms and in munitions plants in Europe is far greater than that. Canada's relief system costs a "heap" of money, but the European substitute is a lot more expensive—to say nothing about it being more dangerous.

One Point Overlooked

An advocate of railway unification, who just happens to be a railway official, told a Vancouver audience that a particularly glaring piece of folly was the attempt to establish a port at Prince Rupert and the building of the Canadian National railway line to that point.

Quite evidently this was folly if the idea is that central and northern British Columbia is not worth opening up and developing, and that the northern and most productive prairie belt is not entitled to an alternative outlet to the Pacific and oversea markets. And since no serious attempt has been made to bring about the development of which the country traversed is capable, and for which the railway was constructed, it has to be admitted that up to date the investment has been unproductive.

But the question now is not whether the railway should be built; but whether, it having been built, the country should be developed or the railway torn up. Presumably the unifiers would tear up the railway, since they have offered no proposal for creating the traffic it needs and which would justify both the construction of the railway and the creation of port facilities at Prince Rupert.

How much is it proposed to pay as compensation to the people who have staked their money, time and interest in the territory the railway serves, and in the port? And to the railwaymen who now earn a living running trains over this long-neglected but potentially profitable line? The unifiers ought to explain that item in their "economy" scheme.

Make an End of Them

Parliament is to make another attempt to curb the rapacity of the "loan shark". It has been doing that periodically for many years, without success. It has failed because the only way to curb the rapacity of any kind of a shark is to kill it. That, exactly, is what parliament should do to the type of financial concern to which the name properly applies.

A concern of that kind renders no useful or necessary service. It is purely parasitical. It preys upon those who have least and can least afford to be robbed. It has existed only by tolerance of the fiction that it was necessary; that the poor could not otherwise get loans when sickness, death in the family, or other emergency compelled them to borrow.

If this is a fact, the condition ought to be faced and dealt with. There are credit institutions in the country, small and large, which deal fairly, honestly and honorably with their clients. The privilege of doing a loaning business should be reserved exclusively to those which do this. If necessary, some sort of public guarantee should be given these institutions against risk of loss they would run in making the loans for which distressed people now go to the "sharks".

As for the latter, the way to deal with them is plain and simple. Parliament should define usury; and then jail the usurers, whether they operate as individuals or under cover of a company name.

Whatever comes of Hon. J. G. Gardiner's proposal to stop bonusing wheat on a bushel basis, the discussion has made western people more acutely conscious than they ever were before that their whole financial set-up rests upon the income of the farmer.

This means the invaders will have to be fought on a wider front, and at greater expense. But the results from last year's control operations show they can be fought successfully.

Current Comment

"Tower" Candidates

Up on Parliament Hill they have been talking about summoning the Editor of the Ottawa Citizen before the bar of the House, with the possibility of his being sent to the "Tower."

We object.

We think that if any editor is going to be sent to Parliament's "tower" there shouldn't be any favoritism about it; that editors should have the right, as it were, to "tender" for the thing.

Because this business of being confined to the "tower" of Parliament is a plum not to be sneezed at. The last lucky fellow to be confined there, as we remember, was a Mr. R. C. Miller. Miller was the most luxurious "prisoner" we have ever heard of. He spent his days in the Parliamentary Library browsing over books, breakfasted, lunched and dined in the Parliamentary restaurant, and slept in a cozy room provided him by the Sergeant-at-Arms. There was no attempt either to cabin or confine him, or to inflict any punishment upon him whatsoever. He wasn't even asked to listen to the speeches.

In the circumstances, and with the memory of Mr. Miller still vivid with us, we protest against this thing going to the Citizen. We feel we're just as much entitled to a Parliamentary "tower" as any newspaper living.—Ottawa Journal.

Farm Problems

C. W. Peterson in the Farm and Ranch Review

Who or what is the enemy and destroyer of agriculture? We cannot fight back and protect ourselves until we answer that query. It is the most important, preliminary question that faces us. Everybody lives on the farmer. Everybody wants the best deal for himself. Economic life is—always has been and always will be—warfare without quarters. Everyone wants his "pound of flesh." As a class we cannot in the long run escape paying legitimate tribute to those we do business with. That is only fair. Any class, however, which, directly or indirectly, exacts from the farmer or from society more than legitimate tribute is our enemy. What is this class or classes?

We cannot fairly say that industry is profiteering at our expense. We can safely cross that off our list. Finance? Interest rates have now been substantially lowered. That should have been done years ago and perhaps they should be lower still. But the difference of one or two per cent in the cost of borrowing will neither make nor break western agriculture. Aside from that I fail to see how financial interests can either help or hinder agriculture to any substantial extent. Of course, I am not attempting to answer the arguments of those who see economic salvation in lassiez faire currency, and who blame "finance" for the legal obstacle to such a policy. I am here confining myself to realities as we actually face them and am not discussing new political theories. Some of these may well be excellent, but as I say, I am just looking for immediate results and am not interested in revolutionary remedies which may take a generation to put over.

We have heard quite a lot about the railway "octopus." Rates can boast of the lowest freight rate basis of any white country in the world. Only India, China and Japan, with their trifling labor cost, enjoy rates only a little below Canadian rates. The average ton-mile receipts of Canadian railways is cents is 0.969. United States rates are a shade higher. The following are the basis of other countries: Australian, 2.733; Great Britain, 3.058; France, 4.010; Sweden, 4.057, and Denmark, 6.458. The European rate basis is from three to over six and a half times as high as it is in Canada. The wages of railway labor, which represents 64 per cent of the direct operating cost, have been forced upwards since 1901 to the tune of 200 per cent, while farm product prices increased only slightly if at all. What with high wages and low rates, the Canadian National is hopelessly bankrupt and the Canadian Pacific ceased paying dividends to its shareholders years ago. The railways certainly are not profiteering. They are more likely headed for the ashcan under the present set-up unless they get a substantial increase in freight rates, which the farmer will pay the lion's share of. That seems to be the way things are drifting now.

That, I think, exhausts the list of the so-called "interests." Agriculture will never have a fair deal until all prices move up and down in reasonable unison with world agricultural prices. That and practice eternal vigilance. No one hates him or conspires against him. The mere suggestion is ridiculous. He is merely the victim of ignorant selfishness on the part of others and of his own potentialities to resist this destructive economic drift through a united and powerful front.

The fight which faces agriculture is the traditional conflict between urban and rural interests. It has nothing whatever to do with political parties as such. No political party can scuttle the support of either labor or agriculture and live. It is a purely economic problem. If existing agricultural bodies: The United Farmers, the Wheat Pools, the Live Stock, Dairy and Poultry organizations and others, would, under the auspices of the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture, undertake an intelligent and impartial study of the economic situation, and at the outset cast overboard all trivial and unimportant complaints and all preconceived ideas about revolutionizing society through socialism, communism, social credit or any other grandiose and long-range political scheme, they would speedily arrive at a very limited number of obvious business grievances of momentous importance. Those we should concentrate on.

Almost overnight we have become aware that a new branch of the human race, so to speak, has come into existence—the aged.—Dr. George Lawton before the American Orthopsychiatric Association.

The Passing Show

By J. B. COWPER

The sudden break-up of Czecho-Slovakia, after Germany, Britain and France had guaranteed its borders in the Munich Pact, is a logical development of that highly proclaimed feat of statesmanship. If you were the person who was listed in the King's honor roll for having discharged the disagreeable task of taking the Franco-Berlitian ultimatum to Prague, wouldn't you feel like handing it back again? There's one piece of humor—and one only that I know of—resulting from the dismemberment of Czecho-Slovakia. The Germans in the Sudeten are fond of their beer. Pilsen and Budweis, the two cities most famous the world over for their beer, are both a few miles inside the Czech border from the Sudeten lands. When Pilsen and Budweis were part of Czecho-Slovakia, the Sudeten Germans got their beer free of taxation. Since the Sudeten became part of the Greater Reich, the Sudeten Germans have to pay duty on the imported Pilsener and Budweiser beers. Due to the loss of the Sudeten to Germany the beer exports of Czecho-Slovakia rose from 2,680,000 gallons in 1937 to 3,340,000 gallons in 1938.

That's hitting Fritz in a weak spot.

A little reference in this column a few weeks ago to sea-life in the clipper days as a revelation in human nature, brought a letter from Col. "Jim" Cornwall. Long before he navigated the great northern waterways, Col. Cornwall spent a few boyhood years at sea. He recalls the time when, hauling on ropes, and near pulling his arms from their sockets, he heard the seadogs, cold and soggy with sea water, chanting in time to the tune of "Away to Rio" and "Blow the Man Down."

THE OLD SONGS OF THE SEA

The coming of steam and internal combustion engines have ended these old songs of the sea. How ancient they are no man knows. The writer of "The Complaynt of Scotland" published in 1549, describing a ship getting under way, says, "As one cry'd, all the rest cry'd in the same time, as if it had been an echo."

"Whiskey Johnny" is traced back to the days of the Armada, with "malmsey" in the place of whiskey. "Haul on the Bowline," according to John Masefield, "was certainly in use in the time of Henry VIII." The bowline then was not the unimportant rope of today, used to steady the leach of a sail when sailing on the wind. In the carracks of Elizabethan days it was what a modern sailor would call the fore-sheet. "Haul on the Bowline" in the days of square-rigged ships was sung for sheeting home the fore and main courses (hauling taut the ropes that hold the large lower square sails on the fore and main masts).

Just as waltzes are written in three-four time and other compositions in four-four and six-eight time, so the sea chanteys had "times" of their own. They were three in number, accented for a single pull, a double pull and for marching round the capstan. They had queer interjections like "Way-ho" "He-ho," and accented words or syllables to mark the moment when all must pull their hearts out together. Many of the chanteys have several versions or sets of verses. Principally they tell of the love affairs of sailors—versions of different degrees of respectability. Ribald and coarse in their humor many of them are, but never any suggestiveness or lewdness in them. Often they poke fun at some stingy skipper, or razz a shipmate like "Reuben Ranzo." One of the short-haul chanteys, "Paddy Doyle," takes revenge on a well-known Liverpool boarding-house keeper and crimp.

Paddy kept a cow's horn in his backyard and used to march green hands round it, so as to be able to swear his solemn oath to any doubting skipper that every man had "been three times round the Horn." The first couplet ended "We'll pay Paddy Doyle for his Boots," the haul taking place at the word "boots." The last stanza—and how they sweated up the halliards on that—said "We'll all throw dirt at the Cook."

ENTERING INTO GREATNESS

My friend is a "big" business man; and also a humble servant of Jesus. We were talking yesterday of the strange lack of leadership in great causes on the part of young men. With a significant gesture he commented, "And they fill their hands with such base and ignoble things."

If he had been making a "success" talk to youth, I am sure he would have counselled them to give themselves to some great cause of their day, sparing not themselves in devotion to it. There is no such thing, I once heard a preacher say, as a great man whose life is not consciously devoted to some big cause outside of his own personal interests.

All of which Jesus said better in the words, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you."

Deliver us from pettiness, O Lord, and teach us to love the things Thou lovest, and to live for the causes for which Thou didst live and die. Amen.

Oppose "Joker Clauses" In New Dental Act!

Editor, Bulletin: No doubt, a number of people have some idea as to just what the bone of contention is, with regard to the dentists and dental mechanics in Alberta. But, may I, as one directly involved, give you herewith some facts to date?

To begin with, in 1932, the Dental Association asked for, and was given, an injunction against the late Mr. W. Lees and myself, and the costs of $1,227.00 for court litigation were charged to us, and we were closed down. This caused the petition by the public which thousands of you signed and caused Mr. Hoadley, the minister of health under the U.F.A. regime, to amend the Health Act (which governs the Dental Act).

This gave the mechanics, like myself and Mr. Lees, permission, under the dentists, to continue making plates at $35.00 per pair for the public, but only under the supervision of the dentists and the provincial board of health. We have been working under this system since 1933, with full knowledge of both the Dental Association and Alberta Government health department.

Just recently, a Mechanics' Bill was turned down in the house. Now the dentists propose introducing a new Dental Act. The reason is that the old act is entirely inoperative. The new act, according to Dr. Rooney, gives the Dental Association the following:

1. Control over all dentists and dentistry;

2. Control over mechanics and laboratories;

3. It follows conclusively that they will have control over all prices.

Is this a 14K monopoly or a combine?

The old Dental Act was a brute of an act. Wait till the new one is presented! To me, it is specifically aimed at independent laboratory men; so that no longer will you be able to get $35.00 teeth. You will have to go to the dentist to get teeth or plates and at their price. This is obvious, because I am now working under the supervision of both the Dental Association and the government. If this is so, why the new act? and aimed to control all laboratory men, when we are already under two boards of control.

The new act will have many "jokers" in it. That is why the mechanics cannot get a look at it. The price of $35.00 teeth "for as low as $35.00" is one. The proverbial "sprat to catch the mackerel." Another one is the paying of the Laboratory men "$5.00" per plate by dentists, instead of $4.00 per plate which is the price today. How kind they are! And will you believe it, the mechanics can't see through this joker. Then why the mechanics clause, part II, of the new act, if it is not to control all the laboratory men, and go after independent laboratories and laboratory men?

It was established that the laboratory men who work for dentists and depend on all of their work from dentists, must obey and sign statements of the Dental Association or get no more work. That was proven when Mr. Hoadley tabled the 1933 amendment on February 13, 1932. The Dental Association submitted a signed statement that the mechanics were satisfied with the present conditions and did not want any amendment to the act. But Mr. Hoadley saw through that JOKER and REJECTED the signed statement.

At a meeting last month, at which 18 or 20 of the dental laboratory men were present, I personally asked Dr. Rooney: "What consideration will I get if I come into line?" He replied: "None." And upon asking "Why," Dr. Rooney replied: "You seem to think you have the God-given right to continue doing what you are doing in spite of all we are doing to stop you." I resultly of making a set of teeth for the public, who sorely need them for $35.00, under the supervision of both the Dental Association and the government I have been a "bad actor" since 1923, because I have always fought, along with the late Mr. Lees, for a break for the underprivileged people and times have not improved since 1923—and everyone knows it.

I have proof of the above facts. I will only have to wait and watch the Dental Association and the new act, as apparently they intend to wait until the last minutes of the session to pull the major "fast" one of rushing it through to make it law. This is proven by the fact that part II of the new act concerning dental mechanics, which we have had access to, finished with clause 54, reading: "This act shall come

Ninety years ago (on March 22, 1849) William Lyon Mackenzie, who had been pardoned and had come back to Canada from New York, caused a riot in Toronto, from which he had been absent from that December night in 1837 when he fled with a price on his head.

As a matter of fact Mackenzie was in Toronto for three days before his presence was known. He wisely kept himself secluded, because he had already had an illustration of the hostility against him among the ferries who on his journey from Montreal to Toronto by coach, hiding in the vehicle while the Kingston ferry-boat "loyalists" burned him in effigy.

It was never known who "tipped off" the fact that the "little rebel" was back in Toronto, but who ever did started something. Within a few hours a mob gathered at the "old rebel headquarters." You could have your choice as to its composition: The Patriot (Tory) dignified the crowd as per a band of loyal citizens, determined to save Toronto from shame," while The Examiner (Reform) dubbed them "an assembly of unshaven, dirty-looking, half intoxicated men and ragged boys."

Torches were lit, stones and rotten vegetables were procured and amid cries of "Drive Mackenzie out of town," the mob proceeded to the residence of John McIntosh, M.P., where Mackenzie was staying with the brother-in-law. The windows of the house were broken and attempts made to set it afire, but Mackenzie and the family had fled to safety and the mob raged for hours in vain.

For two succeeding days the riots continued; the police under the "Tory city council" were charged with laxity. Eventually when the houses of George Brown of the Globe and other Reformers had been attacked, the mayor called out special constables and the soldiers of the garrison, and order was restored.

Mackenzie left secretly for New York and did not return until May 1, 1850, by which time passion had died down and he was permitted to live in peace.

BONNYVILLE

BONNYVILLE'S EARLY SETTLER DIES AGED 77

Trade Girard, one of the district's oldest settlers, died recently here at the age of 77. Mr. Girard was one of the first settlers to homestead when the Indian reserve at St. Paul des Mells was thrown open in 1909. Old-timers throughout this northeastern part of the province recall the good old days when "Old Trade" ran a "stopping place" on the freighting route to Vegreville and to St. Paul. Freighters always calmed themselves so as to eat and spend the night at his place. He leaves his wife and eight children, four boys and four girls. Mr. Girard had lived in Bonnyville for the last two years after leaving his own flourishing homestead to one of his sons.

Albert Dargis was re-elected reeve of the Bonnyville Municipal District at a meeting of the councillors held recently. T. Perrault was named deputy-reeve. W. J. Chester, auditor, Doctors S. Sabourin and W. J. Houghling as medical health officers. M. G. Michaud was chosen as assessor.

R. Dallaire, horse-fancier of the Rimouski district in the province of Quebec, is at present in Bonnyville looking over horses in this district prior to shipping a number of carloads east.

The loud booms of puffing guns heard daily here now are proofs of Bonnyville's first manufacture. The venture is a puffed wheat establishment owned and manged by Harry Panas.

LOUGHEED

At a public meeting held in Lougheed a resolution was passed by farmers asking a continuation of the 80 cent pegged price for wheat. It was suggested that the pegged price was a temporary expedient and the meeting felt the federal government would work out a more suitable solution of the primary producers' problem.

TRADE BOARD AT RED DEER BOASTS 65 MEMBERSHIP

The annual membership campaign of the Red Deer Board of Trade is meeting with good response according to President W. E. Lord.

The drive for members under the direction of Mr. Lord has not been completed and the Board already has 65 members. Five of this number are country members.

The president reported on a recent visit he paid to the Young Men's section of the board. He had issued an invitation for members of the Junior Board to come to sessions of the senior board. Five members of the junior section were present and were introduced by Mr. Lord. They were President George Nechkin, Secretary N. H. Scott, Dr. L. A. MacLean, J. M. Castle and C. A. Richardson.

C. W. Farr, of the fish and game committee of the Board, told of a lecture tour being arranged by Ducks Unlimited. An address would be given and pictures shown. Mr. Farr and S. F. D. Roe of the fish and game committee will try to arrange a date.

BONNYVILLE

BONNYVILLE HAS SERIOUS DEARTH DRINKING WATER

Balmy spring weather has been doubly welcome here as Bonnyville is suffering a serious shortage of drinking water for the first time in memory of settlers. It is hoped that melting snows will replenish dried up veins. Wells, which in the past furnished good water in unlimited quantities, have this year gone dry and only a few wells in the village still give water. Two years of unprecedented drought have brought about this situation.

Anglican Youth Enjoys Movies At Goldfields

The local Anglican Young People's Association staged a successful evening's entertainment at the Bay theatre Thursday night in the form of amateur movies. Projected on the screen were scenes of the mining camp of the air route from Edmonton, the Turner Valley oil fields and California. The reels were taken by local movie enthusiasts. Miss O. Dale, who vacationed recently in the southern state, supplying those of the south. Blake Mulcaster providing those of the north country.

A silver collection netted the organization approximately $25. The A.Y.P.A. was organized six months ago by Rev. Heuther, Jack Williams and Keith Ainsley and the group has grown to a paid up membership of 50.

Meetings are held every Wednesday evening in the Bay theatre where public speaking, debating and other forms of educational amusement are sponsored.

Approval Given Trade Agreement With United States

REGINA, March 22.—Unanimous approval of the recently enacted trade agreement between Canada and the United States was expressed in the Saskatchewan legislature Tuesday after the House had defeated an opposition amendment regretting that the Canadian government had consented to the loss of the six-cent British preference on Canadian wheat, and also regretting the failure of the Federal government to adjust effectively tariffs which adversely affect the primary producers of Canada.

OPPOSITION TO NATIONAL FILM BOARD VOICED

OTTAWA, March 22. — The bill creating a national film board ran into opposition in the senate last night and what had at first promised to be easy passage resulting in a full-dress debate. The measure contemplates setting up a board of eight persons, whose job will be to coordinate the motion picture activities of the various government departments.

Senator Raoul Dandurand, government leader, condemned the bill as a measure that would increase value of advertising the motion picture distribution gives to Canadian government pictures, stressing the educational features.

Fears setting up of another board would result merely in increasing the number of civil servants in Ottawa and add to the expense of government was voiced by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader. The government should assign the taking of pictures to the commercial companies, he said.

Decision On Civil Service Plan Hoisted

OTTAWA, March 22.—Decision was postponed Tuesday by the Commons civil service committee on a recommendation of last year's committee that the service be divided into four or five broad classes with a maximum of not more than nine grades to a class.

"We now have 2,000 classes," said Charles Bland, chairman of the civil service committee. "This recommendation means they would be substituted by 34. It would mean a clearer and simpler classification and would have a material effect on the service."

"We now have 40,000 people in 2,000 classes. We would have to put them in 54. A good many would have to go down or up. I suggest a careful study and that the actual results should go before the committee before any decision is made."

Radio Stations Sought To Form Chain Of Own

MONTREAL, March 22. — Independent Canadian radio stations, the Slic said Tuesday, made application to governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation for permission to form a chain of their own, which the newspaper said presumably would be in competition with the chain of the Corporation stations.

The request, the Star said, was presented at Tuesday's closed session of the CBC governors, who came here Monday to discuss the Corporation's ban on beer programs on the air. Added to the request, made by Leo Geoffrion, K.C., in behalf of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, were others seeking permission to exploit short wave, television and facsimile broadcasts, permission to use electrical transcriptions between 7:30 p.m. and 11 p.m., and, according to the Star, permission to mention prices of goods advertised over the air.

into force on the 1st day of May, 1939."

I think the public should be given this information, for it is specifically said that the Dental Act is for the protection of the public and its health. And many poor people do you know, Mr. Reader, who are in need of teeth and can't afford $35 or $20 for them? Some protection, I'd say!

A dog lays claim to the basic foundation — a chain of good health. You have veterinary surgeons to go out and look after sick hogs, horses and cows. Should human beings have to be forced to a lesser claim? Let's have someone who has the fortitude to crusade in the case above and give the people of today a break, instead of exploiting them.

Pass any number of Dental Acts you wish, but leave the 1933 Health Amendment intact. This should not be rescinded. It worked successfully since 1933 until now.

Your Health

By DR. FRANK McCOY

In yesterday's article I told you something about high blood pressure and today I am going to start by explaining that the most striking thing about high blood pressure is that it may exist for years without the patient being aware it is any higher than normal.

In the beginning it is usually true that the patient develops no symptoms which would serve as a warning and the pressure may go very high without his knowing that danger threatens.

Most cases of hypertension come to the attention of a doctor during the later stages—not during the early stages.

In the course of time, as the pressure continues to rise, the patient may notice a few symptoms which worry him once in awhile but he may ignore even these, thinking he has some trivial disturbances which will soon clear up.

As the pressure goes higher, such symptoms as headache, ringing noises in the ears, dizziness, shortness of breath, and vague aches and pains, may appear.

Sometimes the principal symptom the patient mentions is irritability. He notices he is cranky, easily set on edge, and loses his temper over minor annoyances. The typical high blood pressure patient is often restless and must be constantly on the go. Having an abundance of strength and vigor, he finds resting the hardest work in the world.

High blood pressure is a chronic disorder in the sense that it lasts over a considerable period of time, if untreated. However, it has been my experience that if the patient is seen soon enough, it is usually possible to bring the pressure back down to normal through using the best.

As a matter of fact, I find it easier to reduce the pressure which is too high than to raise the pressure which is too low.

In the majority of cases the pressure which is abormally high will respond in a very gratifying manner to the fasting method, although it is necessary that the patient follow the fasting directions exactly as given if he expects to reap the benefits which thousands have received.

While the fast will rapidly lower the pressure which is too high, it is important that the fasting period be followed by a careful diet. The patient is allowed a moderate amount of meats, an abundance of cooked and raw non-starchy vegetables, and one or two eggs daily. He is advised to cut down on starch, sugar and salt.

After the pressure comes down to a figure commensurate with safety, moderate exercise is helpful but as long as it is high, exercise is best avoided.

I find it necessary to caution the patient against any factor which induces strain or tension. The working period should be broken up with periods of relaxation. Meals should be eaten slowly and in peaceful surroundings. Hurried eating, with its accompanying tension, is undesirable.

Those who wish to know more about High Blood Pressure are welcome to send for my special article on this subject. Write to me and enclose a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. When you wish the directions for taking the fast, mention this in your letter and the proper instructions will be sent you along with the article.

Many of you who are interested in high blood pressure will also be interested in the material on hardening of the Arteries. There is an article on this subject also, for which you are invited to send, when you desire this particular information.

Dr. Frank McCoy's great book, "The Fast Way to Health," gives you the mechanics of fasting in plain, easily understandable language.

A limited supply is on hand at The Bulletin. A copy will be mailed postpaid on receipt of $1.00. Just address The Bulletin.

If it is desired to communicate direct with Dr. McCoy, readers are requested to address communication direct to Dr. Frank McCoy, 535 South Ardmore Ave., Los Angeles, California, and replies will be mailed direct from that address.

I Like selling Life Insurance for the London Life

"It's both pleasant and profitable.

"A well-planned course of training equips me to show people how to reach a position where they will never want. This service, which meets the fundamental human desire for security, gets me a cordial welcome from clients.

"Furthermore, my associates are fine fellows, each chosen by the Company as being fitted for a career in this business.

"Finally, the London Life is interested in our personal welfare. It provides Group insurance for us on a plan to which we make a modest contribution. If I should become disabled or even lose time through illness, I shall still have some income. And if I reach retirement age, I shall have a pension coming in; but if not, my family will receive money to replace my earnings.

Here, There.. Everywhere

By RUTH BOWEN

You have noticed them in passing on country drives beyond Edmonton, the modest, low built houses which face south, under the road passes before or behind their single door, and probably thought that here was just another farm in the district, a little queer because the people didn't seem to care whether or not they took toward the road, as most farm houses do. But these are the homes of Ukrainian settlers in Canada, and within their walls they have treasures of craft work that are now being sought by the University of Saskatchewan to be displayed in a museum.

Few have gone within the homes to see the beautiful weavings which the women do between hours of work on the farm, care and provision for the home, and raising of their families. And yet in any of the little houses one will find a pile of gayly colorful woven rugs to supplement those which hang horizontally with the ceiling, and cover the wooden benches by their tables.

When the women turn to their looms they create again and again the patterns learned in their homeland, each characteristic of the home village. The wool they use is taken from their own sheep. They wash, card and dye it with native vegetable dyes. Then with all the art that is creative expression of the beauty and change of season and day, they weave in convolutional design a story that tells of the new green fields of spring, the black turn of the furrow, the gold of sun and ripened wheat, and all the flamboyant medley of summer in flower.

In their homes in Europe the people built their houses facing south so that the open door would welcome the sun as long as the sun rode the sky. In Alberta there are long hours of sunshine in summer and short hours in winter, when there is time for their craft work. But the work has gone on. In their design they cling to the tradition of home, but with their wools and coloring it is woven with the very fibre of life in Alberta.

To a country that has little native craft work, other than the pieces of Indian work which are fewer year by year, any contribution, as New Canadians, is something to enrich the home of their adoption. Thus the University of Saskatchewan recognizes their own true color in the pattern of Canadian life of the west, and will hang the most beautiful pieces of weaving in their museum, and display the bags and belts, the embroidered head dress of the women as a record of the contribution these New Canadians have given to Canadian life.

The Junior Hospital league is emerging from the dog days. In blue smocks by the benches at the Dog Show in the Memorial hall this week, League members became "stewardesses" each in charge of a number of the 150 dogs entered for honors at the sixth annual show.

Prior to the show itself there were weeks of office work . . . the office being located for the time, in one of large down-town department stores. There, life wasn't dull. Exhibitors of previous years came in to enter aristocrats for further honors. Such confidence as "Mandy has her puppies and they are beauties," brought forth congratulations.

Many enthusiastic young visitors appeared after school hours. Came two small girls, one self-consciously grand in her mother's white kid gloves. Said she, "We've got some good dogs. Here's is a nice dog, only very thin. Do you think a thin dog would get a prize? . . . And I have a puppy. It's three months old."

"But they were told, The class for puppies is for six months up . . . I'm afraid yours is a little young just yet."

"Oh, no!" said Kid Gloves, "My puppy is very big for his age. You see he is a collie."

When Senor Casado, world-famed cellist played here, he was deeply touched by the appreciation of his Edmonton audience. Back stage, referring to his final encore, he said, "I could not speak for the emotion." It is a tribute to any music-loving audience that they with their appreciation, can so move a great artist. On Sunday Senor Casado will be in New York to play with Albert Spalding, famed violinist, who was heard in Edmonton a year ago—with the Philharmonic Symphony orchestra. He said that he would cough so that we will know he is playing again for us!

Formal Frocks For Spring Are Gay In Mood

Bouffant or shirtwaist gowns hold the fashion spotlight for formal parties for early spring. Perfect for the most formal of spring affairs is this gown of white starched chiffon, left, trimmed with bands of shirring. It has short, puffed sleeves, a figure fitting bodice, and a voluminous skirt which flares from the waistline and swirls about the feet. The black silk crepe gown, right, has a moderately full hemline, and is trimmed with frilly, feminine collar and cuffs of embroidered white organdy.

Queen's Aides For Visit To Be Olden-Time Friends

The Queen has chosen two ladies-in-waiting of about her own age from among her friends to accompany her to Canada. They are both women who have known her since the days when they went to children's parties, and both have children who play with the young princesses.

Well versed in all the little intricacies of Court and accustomed to dealing with those unforeseen incidents that occasionally impede the smooth running of royal public appearances, these two members of the court circle will be a great help to any nervous escorting Canadian or his curtsey-shy wife.

Lady Nunburnholme, tall, stately, lovely to look at, has fair English coloring and large grey eyes. She is 35, and as the youngest daughter of the Marquis of Bath, was Lady Mary Thynne before her marriage in 1927. Popular with the Royal family, she was one of the large retinue of bridesmaids at the Queen's wedding in Westminster Abbey and also an attendant when Princess Mary, now the Princess Royal, married Viscount Lascelles.

She has great poise of manner, is an excellent conversationalist, and among the best dressed women in London.

When not on duty at Buckingham Palace Lady Nunburnholme is busy with a variety of interests. She is a member of the Northamptonshire County Council and the devoted mother of an 11-year-old son and two smaller daughters who are among the children on the list of those invited to nursery tea with Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose.

SECOND ATTENDANT

Lady Katharine Seymour is the same age as the Queen and a widow of a few months. She has three small children, one son and two daughters, also playmates of the Buckingham Palace children.

Youngest daughter of the Duke of Abercorn, she was appointed to the present royal household as lady-of-the-bedchamber on the same day as Lady Nunburnholme, March 1, 1937, when preparations for the coronation were under way, and the Queen asked the help of her close friends.

Lady Katharine worked with the Queen when she was the newly-married Duchess of York and became confidential secretary to Queen Mary so that she might become accustomed to all the detail of royal correspondence and the long list of royal engagements. Lady Katharine was for some years lady-in-waiting to Queen Mary and her clear round signature graced the majority of letters in answer to those sent to that seemingly tireless royal mother.

The duties of these ladies-in-waiting during the Canadian tour will in the majority of cases correspond to their title. They will wait—a step or two behind—while mayors make speeches to the King and Queen. One will always attend the Queen and on formal occasions such as large receptions or state dinners both will be present.

HAVE MANY DUTIES

They will look after all the details of engagements and it is their duty to find out as much as possible about the various Canadian celebrities invited to meet their Majesties so the Queen can talk with more knowledge and place her guests at ease.

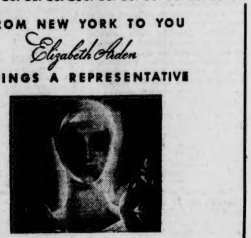

Into their hands fall all the dozens of requests and invitations to acknowledge and they write for the Queen all the notes such a visit as that to Canada makes essential.

The ladies-in-waiting will have their own sitting room on H.M.S. Repulse and at Rideau Hall in Ottawa, though it would not seem, judging from the itinerary planned, that they will have much time for relaxation. According to those who come in close contact with them, members of the royal household work long hours at the business of being gracious and half the hard work is in never letting it show.

Well-Groomed Tripster Lays Plans In Advance

Bulletin Patterns

By ALICIA HART

On careful preparation depends a large part of the success of any trip. Any beauty-minded woman knows that this means getting the right clothes, the right luggage and the right cosmetics, as well as reservations, well in advance.

The proper travel clothes, whether you go by air, boat or on one of the swift, streamlined trains, are those which do not wrinkle or show dirt easily.

A suit remains the best type of travel costume, of course, but there are suits and suits. And the fussy little number of a fabric that crumples and stays crumpled during the first wearing is all wrong. Incidentally, much as you love silk blouses with your suit, be sure to take at least one jersey or knit sweater blouse — something that doesn't have to be packed any too carefully and which never seems to show soil.

About the most unhandy item to have along is a fitted case in which the fittings do not stay in place. To find jars, bottles and odds and ends in a huddle in the middle of the case every time you open it is a little disconcerting.

Before you buy a fitted case, turn it upside down, this way and that, to make sure that each item will stay where it is supposed to, no matter how energetically porters toss the bag about.

Everyone will advise you to travel light. Not a bad idea, of course, but don't take such advice too seriously and take so few nightgowns and slips that you have to worry about laundry at every hotel. Really put some time and thought into striking a happy medium in your travel wardrobe. Don't take too many clothes, but don't let anyone persuade you to take fewer costumes than you actually will need.

"SWIRLING" SKIRTED PRINCESS With Its Own Little Bolero Jacket

The swirling skirt print crepe princess dress is the "last word" for spring . . . especially with its own little bolero jacket. It's as young as the little girl fashion that inspired it. The basque-like lines through the bodice, are divinely flattering. The padded shoulders of the brief sleeves are accented by crisp spanking white piqué applique flowers. A white piqué flower trims the hat which is made of faille crepe. It is in a tone that matches the lovely broadcloth color of the print. By the way, the pattern for the applique and the hat are included. For a change of costume, this important little princess looks just as lovely without its jacket. You'll be amazed at the low price and find it just the easiest costume ever to sew.

What To Do

When speaking to friends about my husband I always mention his first name, but when speaking with acquaintances or friends of my daughter, what should I say?

MRS. C. M. F.

Answer — You naturally would speak of your husband as "John" to intimate friends, just as you would speak of him to members of your immediate families. But to new acquaintances, who in all probability do not know your husband's first name, you should call him "my husband." And to friends of your daughter you should refer to your husband as Mr. Farren. But never, never speak of him as "The Mister." You wouldn't, of course, but I simply mention it because, unfortunately, it is done, you know!

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: The inclosed hand represents a real bridge tragedy. It is pretty obvious that somebody went astray in the bidding, but just who it was, and how bad his error was, are two questions that are causing an endless debate among the players involved.

"East opened the bidding with one Diamond. With an eye on the opponents' part-score South risked two clubs. Both had two hearts and North, with a singleton in his partner's suit and his only biddable suit already named by an opponent, meekly passed. East, with 100 honors and a six card suit, and a free bid from partner, felt that he was safe in a three diamond contract. South, with no response from partner, passed. West was satisfied to let well enough alone and to allow his partner to struggle with three diamonds on the part-score. North stepped in with a double. Both East and West saw fit to let the double stand, with the following disastrous result: South laid down the club ace, following the eight spot. North ruffed. North led a low spade to South's king and another club was returned and ruffed. North then cashed his spade ace and led a low spade. South ruffed. North's diamond ace accounted for the defenders' seventh trick. The contract was down 800.

"Just where did East and West go astray in their bidding? In view of the part-score should West have doubled the two club bid or should he have ventured a no trump response with a void in diamonds? Finally, should he have rebid his hearts at the three level or taken his partner out to no trump? Please advise.

"H. H. S., Florida."

In a sense the calamity befalling East-West was poetic justice, because West was guilty of one of the most heinous of bridge crimes—rubber grabbing. I have inveighed against this practice on many occasions.

When East opened the bidding with one diamond, and South overcalled with two clubs, West should not have lost such a glorious opportunity to double. The part-score condition should not have influenced him to such a degree that he would let an opponent who obviously "has pots" get away unscathed. Many players seem to have the idea that, when they can grab a rubber, they should do so and let it go at that, paying no attention to the opponents' bids or to opportunities for juicy penalties. If, on a part-score such as this, with both sides vulnerable, one team can sweeten its own score to the tune of 800 by the time the opponents promptly do so and think about the rubber on the next hand. From West's point of view there should have been no doubt but that a substantial penalty would accrue from a two club double, particularly since he was void of his partner's suit, diamonds. Not only that, but with this preliminary evidence of a misfit there was decided danger in putting in a two heart bid. I do not think that East can be blamed an iota for feeling that a three diamond call would be supremely safe.

Admittedly East-West had very bad luck in the breaks of the cards, but it is a very curious fact that bad luck often follows upon bad decisions.

It's now time to set aside your heavy Winter perfume, and give yourself a lift with the delightful new scent of Spring flowers. Lily of the valley, violet, lilac, honeysuckle or delicate magnolia. It somehow gives you that fresh ready-for-anything feeling that's so grand.

New Fashion Note

The Agal, a brand new creation, features the gracefully draped Kaffie scarf (forerunner of the Wimple), upon which is placed a little halo roll or Agal made of hand-blocked Arabian print. It would be equally lovely with spring prints or solid colors.

'MRS. DOC' —By TOM HORNER

The characters and situations in this story are wholly fictitious.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

ALAN WARREN: Ambitious young country doctor.

EMILY WARREN: Alan's wife.

ERIC KANE: Construction engineer.

DR. FARRELL: Alan's elderly associate.

Yesterday: Emily finds that Eric Kane knew their old friends in St. Louis. She tells her about a dream-girl he once knew in St. Louis and Emily cries out, "You, Eric, you!"

CHAPTER VII

EMILY was laughing, almost hysterically.

"I can't see anything so terribly funny about it," Kate's tone was sharp-edged.

"Forgive me, Eric," Emily's laughter subsided. But it is funny —I was the 'Fairy Princess'. And you—you were 'Sir Knight.' I don't blame you for not recognizing me; there's quite a difference between a school girl of 18 and a doctor's wife of 24. And I looked positively outlandish that night in that hoop-dress and costume. Oh, it's such a funny, tiny world!"

"My Fairy Princess," Erich murmured.

"I had just returned from a vacation abroad," Emily explained. "I saw you dancing with Rosalind, just as I said. Like a foolish school girl I decided to meet you—romantically. There was no dragon—not even a drunk.

"I was afraid you might not be interested. I thought if you were, you'd be at Rosalind's the next night, looking for me. But you weren't there, and my pride was terribly hurt. I never mentioned the affair to anyone. Rosalind and Walt thought I had left the ball before you arrived, and immediately eliminated me from the search. They never mentioned it.

"That's why I've had the feeling, all evening, that I had met you before. I couldn't place you—I never dreamed of seeing you here—until you started telling me about the 'Fairy Princess.'

"I never came back, so you thought—"

"Then I met Alan."

"Alan darling, guess what? Eric and I met before, years and years ago." Emily was perched on the arm of his easy chair, after Kate had departed. "Really, I didn't remember until he started telling me about a girl he had met at a Veiled Prophet Ball.—" She was pouring out the whole story.

"But I didn't love him, Alan" she concluded, "not like I love you. I was just a crazy kid. I knew that when I met you. You're the only man I'll ever love."

"You were just a child then, honey. You still are—my baby."

His arms were around her, pulling her down, closer to him. His lips brushed her forehead, she cuddled comfortably there, her head on his shoulder.

"Eric is certainly a fine chap," Alan continued. "He's so real, so earnest, no one could dislike him. I hope we'll see a lot more of him. You'll have to be a sort of guardian for him. He's probably deserted by lonely, sitting around in an empty hotel room all day."

"If he's well enough to go, I'll have Mrs. Maddox ask him to her party Saturday night."

"That's a good idea. You can launch him into Sumner's social whirl. All the other women will be jealous when you appear with two men."

"I don't want two men, Alan. You're the only one I want. I'm selfish—I want you all to myself, for always and always and always." She kissed his lips, rumpled his unruly hair. "I want you to be just like you were, back in St. Louis. Not the eminent Doctor Alan Warren, who has little time for his wife, but the Alan I fell in love with. The Alan who used to sneak down fire escapes just to kiss me; who used to call me at all hours of the night just to say 'I love you.' We had such fun, then, Alan."

"We have now, my sweet," Alan smiled. "Remember our picnics out on the Merrimac. And our own special little table at Mirliss."

"I'll bet they're still keeping that table just for us." Emily grew serious. "We could have all of that again, and more, too—if you'd go back, darling."

"You'd like it very much wouldn't you?"

"Oh Alan, it would be wonderful. We could buy a little house not near the park. You'd be home early every evening. And after dinner, every night, you'd sit in your chair, just like then, and I'd be in your arms always—with no telephone to disturb us. Have you heard from Dr. Peterson about the hospital—sharp, angry words that hurt.

Slowly she went down the stairs. "Is it real, or is it a picture?" Alan asked as he gazed admiringly at her. "It walks, it smiles; it's really alive!"

"And it's mine—all mine," Alan added proudly. "You're a lucky fellow, Eric, getting to take this glamorous queen of beauty and charm to dinner. Watch over her, and fight off all the men—she's precious."

"You idiotal" Emily scolded, but she was pleased.

The telephone rang. Alan answered.

"Yes, Dr. Farrell. All right. I'm on my way."

He turned to them. "You'll have to take a cab, Farrell just arrived, and he wants me in a hurry." He pulled his overcoat from his overcoat pocket, adjusted it quickly.

"See you later, darlin'." He bent to kiss Emily.

Eric had seen something white fall to the floor. "You dropped something, Alan," he said, but it was too late, with a slam of the door Alan was gone.

Eric bent, picked up the letter that had fallen from Alan's pocket, and handed it to Emily. It was soiled, unopened. She glanced at cine had brought her after scarcely a year of marriage.

Alan would never change—not in this environment. His patients, his operations would be his first consideration. She hated playing second fiddle to anything. A man's wife should come first; he should think of her feelings. As a doctor's wife, she had a certain social position to maintain—Alan admitted that—but she couldn't maintain it alone.

She breathed a prayer—"Please God, make him go to St. Louis!"

Emily could hear Alan's voice, downstairs, as he welcomed Eric. She would not be pushed off to go to a party with another man. She was glad Eric was there. Without him, she would have called Mrs. Maddox, sent her regrets, and spent a miserable evening alone. And there would have been words that hurt when returned from the hospital—sharp, angry words that hurt.

This is the way it has always been, this is the way it will always be in Summer, Emily thought. Going alone, going without Alan to dinners, to parties. Eric was a help, but nothing could make her like this "widowhood" medi-

Raising A Family

Some children will work only if they are interested in their tasks. Others will work if they know they have to. The third class is made up of those rare souls who work regardless of interest or compulsion. Study your children's temperaments, and I think you will notice the difference in temperament. No two people are the same when it comes to responsibility.

Then there are other ways to classify the worker. Study children as well as adults, tackle a job with O. K. Boston confidence. Maybe they won't do it very well, again they may. But they are cheerful. Others worry themselves to death, lacking assurance, in spite of the fact that they may be almost sure to succeed.

Neurotics in later life are made up largely of the workers who let the slightest responsibility rest heavily. In psychological parlance it is called "attitude to work." And the truth is that if most people could rearrange their attitude to the daily grind, they would be healthier and happier.

I really do not think that natures can be changed very much after a certain habit of thinking is set. Perhaps they cannot be changed at all, for we know that children, having the same home, and the same parents, and largely identical experiences, seldom match as far as dispositions go.

However, this is an encouraging fact; that the younger our children are trained to face small jobs and help with the work, the more naturally they will take to responsibility later on. As they grow older and stronger, their daily responsibilities should be increased accordingly.

AVOID EXTREMES

By this I do not mean that children should drudge or be deprived of the normal play and activities of each happy day but merely that they ought to have enough things to do to establish work-habit, work-expectancy and work-acceptance. There is a little difference in the meaning of the three.

The important thing is to train children to look upon all labor as a normal condition—in fact, life itself. Labor may mean almost anything under the sun that involves effort of mind or body.

Alas, Virginia, I am no seeress who is the seventh daughter of a seventh daughter and who was born in a caul, so I cannot unriddle your riddle for you. It would take nothing short of occult power to do that. For while it is comparatively easy to find a man to the matrimonial brink, it takes the magic touch to push him over.

Of course many women have discovered the secret of how to do this, for the wedding bells continue to wring out. But how the astute ladies do it is their trade secret that they refuse to reveal. So the best that I can give you are a few tips that may or may not work out. However, you may try them on the principle of nothing venture, nothing gain.

Of course naturally you must begin by studying your man, for the tactics that will work on one may be a total failure on the other. So size up your man and determine whether he is romantic or practical; whether he is domestic or a good-time-Charlie; whether he is old or young; whether he is sympathetic or hard-boiled.

Also consider your background and bide your time craftily until the hour and the place and the woman and the man meet. Many a man has made his escape when the bridle was virtually on his head because the woman rushed matters when he was hungry, or had lost many in the stock market, or his dinner had disagreed with him and for the time being he was soured on everything in the world including marriage.

Of course, it is a shame that women can't come out flat-footed and ask a man "will you be mine?" but inasmuch as they can't they have to work undercover until, like the mounted police, they get their man.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men
Here's good advice for a woman during her change of life (usually from 35 to 52), who fears she'll lose popularity with men, who writes about hot flashes, dizziness, nervousness, upset nerves and moody spells. There is no disputing the fact that the world demand for wheat this season, including that taken by China, is extremely encouraging and if prices are unable to respond adequately, it is because supplies are temporarily excessive. Nevertheless longs have the consolaton that the additional demand from unexpected sources will help to reduce these surpluses in exporting countries. The demand from China has exceeded all expectations and millers in Australia have so many orders on their books that they have refused to accept others until they have completed May delivery.

Royal Commission Report Not Ready Before July, 1939

OTTAWA, March 22.—The report of the royal commission on Dominion-provincial relations will not likely be completed before July, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons Tuesday. At one time it had been hoped to get the report in by Easter but additional work had been found necessary.

New Variety Of Wheat, Rust-Resistant, Is Developed At Indian Head

OTTAWA, March 22.—A new variety of rust resistant wheat developed at Indian Head, Sask., experimental farm will shortly be distributed to farmers for "multiplication," Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, told the House of Commons last night.

Known at present as No. 975 this wheat shows promise of value, having a good head and yielding about 40 bushels to the acre. It came through the rust season comparatively free from damage, Mr. Gardiner said.

Reports from the milling were not yet available but it appeared this experiment was more satisfactory than any previous development.

This wheat seed would be distributed, so long as the supply lasted, at the rate of four bushels each to farmers applying for it, to provide a stock of seed for general distribution. Two new varieties of rust resistant oats were being distributed to farmers in eastern and western Canada, the minister said. Some research had been undertaken on possibilities of drought resistant wheat but little progress had been achieved.

TORIES OPPOSED

Echoes of an old argument as to how far parliament should delegate its powers over the expenditure of public money to the cabinet or to individual ministers were heard as Conservatives took a stand against a bill to amend the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act.

They objected to the powers conferred on the Minister of Agriculture with the approval of the cabinet to enter agreements with provinces, municipalities, persons or corporations respecting water conservation projects, to buy, sell or lease lands, and purchase or rent machinery required to sell such equipment.

"This gives the minister power to do anything on earth within the limits of the monies voted by parliament," said Hon. R. J. Manion, Conservative leader.

POWERS NO GREATER

In reply Mr. Gardiner said the powers conferred by the bill were no greater than in the original Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act, passed in 1935 while a Conservative government was in office and were necessary for the efficient functioning of the measure.

On the whole the house made good progress yesterday. Mr. Gardiner, besides getting his P.F.R.A. bill through third reading got a bill to amend the Agricultural Pests Prevention Act through second reading and advanced in the committee stage.

APPROVAL OBTAINED

Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of finance, obtained approval for a large block of the tariff items in the Canada-United States trade agreement in Committee of Ways and Means. The items passed included the controversial farm implement schedules which led to a brief east-west flurry.

On an item reducing the duty on cream separators to 7½ per cent, the rate common to most farm machinery, J. T. Thorson (Lib., Selkirk) expressed the hope the duty would soon be removed altogether.

Hon. H. H. Stevens (Con., Kootenay East) urged the government to instruct the National Research Council to make a complete inquiry into the effect of all patents effective in Canada as tariff items on certain electrical apparatus were considered.

Trend Canadian Railway Revenue Down Since 1923

OTTAWA, March 22—The best that could be hoped for in the earnings of Canadian railways was that the decline would be stopped, Prof. J. L. MacDougall of Queens University told the senate railway committee Tuesday. He placed 1923 as the top year for railways. After that revenues began to fall. The trend had been downward.

"If this old world ever straightens itself out and we have more immigration, isn't there a possibility the trend will turn upwards very rapidly?" asked Senator J. A. Calder (Con., Saskatchewan).

The professor did not think so.

ROYALITE 35 IS 609 FEET IN LIMESTONE

Royalite 35, the only active operation in northwest Turner Valley, was at a total depth of 6,782 feet on Tuesday, which is a distance of 609 feet in the lime. Depths of other Royalite wells are: No. 38 drilling at 6,906 feet; No. 39 at 3,217 feet and No. 40 at 1,489 feet.

The well of Grease Creek Petroleums on the Grease Creek structure is approaching an interesting stage, drilling at 2,150 feet in the Lower Bentons. Stock of the company will be called for trading in Calgary early next week.

The Newell & Chandler report shows Davolite No. 1 at 1,280 feet; York No. 2 is at 6,399 feet; Oil Ventures at 4,821 feet; Winalta at 3,410 feet and Calwin at 5,060 feet.

The three Anglo Canadian wells report the following depths: No. 4 at 4,660 feet; No. 5 at 6,013 feet and No. 6 at 2,647 feet.

The Brown-Moyer-Brown group of wells contributed 50,830 barrels, or 18.23 per cent of crude oil sold from Turner Valley during February. There are 13 producers in the group. February production was lower than in January due to the cut in the field allowable on February 1 from 12,500 to 10,000 barrels daily.

Gross revenue from the 13 wells during February was $63,644. After $15,536 in gross royalties, net revenue was $48,108.

The four wells of Brown Corporation had net sales in February of 16,130 barrels from which gross revenue was $20,613. After payment of gross royalties of $5,153, net revenue for the month was $15,460.

LEGISLATURE SLASHES TIME FOR SPEECHES

40-Minute Limit On Private Members Debate Contributions

With the exception of cabinet ministers, the recognised leader of the opposition or a member moving a resolution, speeches in the Alberta legislature in the future will be limited to 40 minutes.

This was decided on Tuesday when the house adopted a resolution incorporating this proviso. The motion was sponsored by Rev. Aog Taylor, S.C., Pincher Creek and deputy speaker of the legislature.

Prior to adoption of the resolution, two amendments fell by the wayside.

As soon as the rule was adopted, Mr. Speaker Peter Dawson informed the house that it was in effect.

The first amendment was moved by A. E. MacLellen, Independent S.C., Innisfail, who urged that the time limit be 30 minutes and in this he was seconded by Charles Cockroft, Independent S.C., Stettler.

Mr. Speaker Dawson ruled out of order an amendment by D. M. Duggan, Conservative leader, that would have substituted a former rule for the Taylor motion.

Mr. Taylor contended that 40 minutes was all that should be required for any remarks necessary. D. B. MacMillan, S.C., Lacombe, declared the rule was desirable but that others should avoid interruptions. J. J. Bowlen, Liberal, Calgary urged the 40-minute rule be applicable to cabinet ministers also.

Winter Clothing Goes By Boards As Spring Here

Topcoats and even vests were shed Tuesday as Edmonton "sweltered" in 57 above weather, but citizens still wore rubbers to wade through slush-covered side streets.

Soaring to 52 above at 12:30 noon, the mercury held above the 50-mark until 4:30, sinking at that time to 49 above. Dropping steadily, it touched an overnight low of 29 above at 6:30 Wednesday morning. At 8:30 it had risen to 36.

Forecast is "fair and mild."

Temperatures in most far northern points were below the zero-mark, ranging from 26 below at Norman to 28 above at Nelson.

Rain fell at Hudson Hope, Pt. St. John and Notikewin in the near-north while temperatures there ranged from 18 to 40 above.

Flooding of basements in Fraser and Rossdale flats was reported by the city engineer's department on Wednesday. Crews of men are busily engaged in attempting to stem the waters which also threaten to flood cellars in other low-lying sections of the city.

Mystery Surrounds Sweepstake Ticket

Mystery surrounds the report in an Edmonton paper Tuesday that a South Side woman had drawn a ticket on Kilstar, favorite in the Grand National, to be run on Friday. Dublin sweep authorities stated that only one person in Canada had drawn a ticket on the favorite, and a Dr. H. A. Woodside, Bateman, Sask., claims to hold this ticket.

GOVERNMENT READY MEET UNEMPLOYED

Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross Expresses Willingness To Meet Delegation

Provincial government willingness to meet a delegation representing the unemployed was expressed by Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health and in charge of relief, in the legislature on Tuesday. This willingness had been communicated to the unemployed.

In view of the fact that about 200 unemployed had marched to the legislative buildings during the afternoon, said Fred C. Anderson, S.C., Calgary, he suggested that the minister make a statement on the subject. His remark was made during discussion of the new relief act.

Dr. Cross declared that he had been informed on Friday last that the unemployed contemplated a parade.

Subsequently, the contact committee was contacted and a delegation of three representing it, conferred at his office on Saturday.

Main grievance of the delegation, he said, seemed to be that they were not being given a chance to present their grievances before the house agricultural committee.

He declared that when the delegation suggested that a parade be held he recalled that last year the agricultural committee had sat for three weeks to hear their representations and yet, two days after these hearings ended, a parade was held. He said that he pointed out to the delegation that a parade was not the proper course to follow.

"I was willing to arrange a meeting with the cabinet for Thursday morning when the whole matter would be gone into," he said. "The men said no and that they would stage a parade."

In reference to a press report that at the meeting with the delegation last Saturday, he had said the relief allowances must be accepted or recipients could "starve" the Minister gave a denial to the report, stating he made no such remark. Relief officials were present and could substantiate his remark.

"The statement was never made and the question of relief allowances never came up," he said.

Dr. Cross declared he had received a note from a member of the assembly asking when he would meet a committee from the unemployed.

"The parade failed but I am still perfectly willing to meet a delegation," he said. "The people on relief who want to take up any matter can see me at my office at any time, but they don't need a go-between to arrange a meeting."

Ancient Law Has Bearing In City Case

A law which was passed in the eleventh year of the reign of King George II, forbidding a tenant removing his belongings from rented property in order to escape distress proceedings has been invoked in Edmonton and the case is now before the courts.

In police court Wednesday Joseph Trickey, of 10057 101 street, was called upon to answer the charge laid under the aged statute. The charge was laid on information sworn out by Robert G. Hulburt, of the International hotel. Magistrate L. R. Jackson adjourned the case until March 29.

The Crown will attempt to show that Trickey, between the 23rd day of February and the second day of March, "did fraudulently carry off such premises his goods or chattels, not exceeding the value of £50 to prevent the landlord from distraining same for arrears of rent so due."

In the memory of court officials this is the first time the ancient statute has been invoked in Edmonton. Hulburt is represented by Carl Clement, and Trickey by Hugh Calais Macdonald, K.C.

Boy Is Injured

Joe Crichton, 6, of 11524 97 street, sustained bruises and scratches when he ran into the side of an auto driven by R. F. Ellis, 11852 94 street, while playing on 97 street Tuesday afternoon.

Refused a hearing when they paraded to the legislative building Tuesday to protest against relief regulations, more than 200 unemployed contented themselves with listening to speakers who addressed them from the steps of the building. At the top, above, Bill Bundy tells the crowd, in a dramatic speech, that their fates are being settled within the building. In the lower left hand corner, R.C.M.P. stop Jack Nicholson from entering the building while a reporter takes notes. Just past the back of the uniformed officer's neck, on the extreme left, is Inspector Fish, in plain clothes. Unemployed Take Issues to House In Street March

Nearly 200 unemployed attended a meeting called on the Market Square by the Provincial Unemployed Married Men's Association, Tuesday afternoon, paraded through city streets to the legislative buildings and were barred by Royal Canadian Mounted Police from entering to interview Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health and welfare.

They disbanded when they were advised that the minister would arrange to meet their delegates Wednesday morning.

Speakers at the meeting on the market square and on the steps of the legislative building belabored government officials for failing to realize the gravity of the situation among relief recipients and for refusing to discuss the grievances with the leaders of the Provincial Unemployed Married Men's Association.

The meeting and the parade were orderly and brought special commendation from Staff Inspector Matt Blackwood of the city police who remarked on the "good sense" shown by the leaders.

R.C.M.P. STOP

Arriving at the buildings a delegation of the paraders attempted to enter the building to interview Dr. Cross. They were intercepted by Royal Canadian Mounted Police under the leadership of Inspector Fish. Their names were taken and

Mr. Watson explained the type of boiler used for steam generation and the design of the turbo-generator, which develops 15,000 kilowatts of electric power. The generator unit cost $215,000.

Mr. Watson explained why he favored large units, both in boiler and generator, rather than small, multiple units.

The Inquiring Reporter

"Do you believe that Britain, United States, France and Russia, by working in agreement, could stop further aggression by Hitler without recourse to war?" asked The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter today.

Below are opinions:

ALEX. NORQUAY, live stock field man: If I knew the answer to that question, I wouldn't need to be around here. I'd like to know the solution to that riddle but I'm afraid I can't even guess.

* * *

S. RUSSELL, fruit inspector: Yes, I believe they could, as I think Hitler's moves are 75 per cent bluff. It is a pity, however, that they didn't get together a year ago. They would have had a better chance then.

* * *

ANDY McFARLANE, dairyman: I believe this would be an effective measure. If Hitler knew for certain that these four powers would move against him, he would have to stop his aggression and likely would ask for parleys the next time he wanted something.

* * *

KEN LOFTS, messenger: I think concerted action would slow Hitler down. He would be placed in the position of facing the world as his allies, Italy and Japan, can't be classed with Britain and the United States. France is a fighting nation when pressed and Russia, whose strength is not fully known, certainly is strong.

CLOSER CHECK PROPOSED FOR CITY AFFAIRS

Investigating Committee Discusses Methods Controlling Purchasing

Methods of accounting and auditing which would involve a closer check on all city accounts, particularly with respect to all purchasing departments were recommended by Comptroller A. A. Campbell and received general approval from the five-man aldermanic committee which since the end of 1938 has been investigating shortages in the stores and works departments.

Mr. Campbell's chief proposal was for a "purchasing auditor" who would be a member of the comptroller's staff and through whose hands all bills for purchases by the city would pass.

Suggestion that reorganization be carried out affecting the individual purchasing departments of all branches of the city service, including utilities, was made by Ald. Blair Paterson and will be studied by city commissioners and departmental superintendents before the committee drafts its final report.

The comptroller reported that he had completed a special audit of the stores and works department, checking back several years. He was instructed by the committee to discontinue this audit and only report new discrepancies

RELATIVES

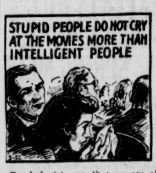

Some people have a great many relatives, but they are scattered far and wide. This illustrates the Law of Compensation.

Distantly removed cousins are apt to be the best of relatives, sometimes even being as nice as strangers.

One of the laws of heredity is: like mother, like daughter. This law is frequently broken by son-in-law, who finds it hard to like both of them.

A group picture of every large family should be taken at regular intervals. In this way you can watch the little ones in the family growing more and more objectionable as the years go by.

Debunker

Psychologists say that we are all wrong in supposing we are more intelligent than our weeping brothers when we feel no urge to shed tears during emotional movies or dramas. Except in cases of "chronic weepers," intelligent people are more likely to feel like having a good cry than are dull people, for they want to cry because their keen imagination makes the scene real. Imagination is one of the big aspects of intelligence, and it enables people to place themselves in the situations acted out by the performers. So, go ahead and enjoy yourself when you want to cry. You have at least a little imagination in you.

Entry of Col. D. Ritchie Captures Silver Champ-pionship Trophy

Glenlifer Bright Spark, beautiful little Scottish terrier owned and exhibited by Col. David Ritchie, chief of police of Calgary, was judged the best dog in the Junior Hospital League's sixth annual dog show, which ended Tuesday night at the Memorial Hall.

Col. Ritchie was awarded the handsome J. G. Young trophy, silver cup which must be competed for annually. This is the second time Col. Ritchie has won this award at the Edmonton dog show, as he captured it in 1937, winning the reserve show championship in 1938.

HAIRDRESSING CONTROL IS AIM OF NEW BILL

With a view to establishing control of the hairdressing business of the province, F. C. Anderson, S.C., Calgary, introduced a private bill in the legislature on Tuesday. The measure was given first reading and it is expected that later it will be referred to the house agricultural committee, where representations can be made on it by interested parties.

It is expected that the printed copies of the bill will be circulated within a few days. R. A. Smith, K.C., legislative counsel, is drafting the bill.

In introducing the bill, Mr. Anderson declared that at present there are some hairdressing schools in the province, which provide for a training period for operators. "But," he said, "anybody can start as a hairdresser in this province without any training."

He stated that the bill aimed to give some protection to the public in respect to hairdressing.

He added that the text of the bill which he was sponsoring was practically identical with one on the British Columbia statute books which had been in operation for 10 years.

MULLEN STRESSES NECESSITY FOR PUBLIC MARKETS

Declaring that the government was spending money improving the livestock industry and that it realized there was a need of public markets for the benefit of the livestock producers as a whole, Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister of agriculture, has no intention of competing with markets operating at the present time.

Need for public markets, he said, was no reflection on those now operating stock yards.

Mr. Mullen, however, pointed out that there was a real necessity for competitive markets.

John J. Bowlen, Liberal, Calgary asked regarding purposes of the bill and the minister replied that details would be forthcoming later.

J. W. Hugill, K.C., Independent, Calgary asked if it was the intention to make expenditures regarding the bill and J. H. Tremblay, Liberal, Grouard, asked whether it was the intention to regulate all livestock passing through stock yards.

Mr. Mullen: "We want to prove to producers that it is best to market through public stockyards."

LOWER PRICE ON MACHINERY IS ADVOCATED

Legislature Discusses Resolution On Farm Implements

Declaring that thousands of farmers are faced with bankruptcy, through circumstances beyond their control, Rev. J. A. Wingblade, S.C., Wetaskiwin, in the legislature on Tuesday moved a resolution advocating the government investigating to the extent to which prices of farm implements and repairs are excessive and unequitable and taking such steps as it deems advisable to remedy this situation." Debate is unfinished, adjournment of discussion being moved by I. M. McCune, S.C., Gleichen.

Mr. Wingblade declared he was moving the motion on behalf of farmer members of the house.

He pointed out that agriculture "is the greatest and most important industry in this province and the majority of the people are engaged therein."

It was contended by Mr. Wingblade that "the high cost of farm implements and repairs enhance the cost of production and is one of the main factors resulting in the present financial difficulties confronting those engaged in farming."

ESTIMATES DEBT

Mr. Wingblade declared that the estimated debt of the Alberta farmers in 1931, according to estimates was $317,600,000 of which mortgages made up $162,000,000; agreements for sale $90,000,000; implements $21,000,000; bank debts $16,500,000; store debts $10,000,000 and miscellaneous $18,300,000.

He declared that "it is important to note, however, that the estimate as at the end of 1936 of the total indebtedness of agricultural Alberta furnished by the Alberta Debt Adjustment board. This board while agreeing that it is impossible to obtain accurate and definite figures covering the total indebtedness of agriculture Alberta estimates conservatively that the amount would be approximately $395,000,000. Mr. Wingblade dealt in some detail with the trend of farm implement prices. He took 10 farm implements, such as gang plow, harrow, disc harrow, binder, 20 run DD. drill; 24 run D.D. drill; mower; eight foot binder; wagon complete and rake and delivery rake. In 1914 these 10 collectively cost $969. In 1921 this total cost had increased to $1,984; in 1930 to $1,896.50; in 1932 to $1,665 and in 1936 to $1,687.50.

GIVES FIGURES

In those same years, said Mr. Wingblade, the price at Winnipeg for No. 1 wheat, per bushel, on a yearly average was: 1914, 88¼c; 1920, $2.67½; 1921, $2.09; 1930, 64¼c; 1932, it was 54¾c and in 1935-1936 it was 88c.

Mr. Wingblade also adduced figures to show the discrepency in the matter of returns to farms and in the prices of labor for machinery.

Taking grain, he said that in 1914 grain was 88c a bushel for No. 1 wheat at Winnipeg and in 1920-1921 it was $2.40, an increase of 173 per cent. In 1930 the price was 64c a decrease of 73.33 per cent.; in 1932 it was 54c a bushel, a decrease of 15.63 per cent. and in 1936 it was 85c, a decrease of 3.14 per cent. over the 1914 price.

Taking machinery he took his 10 implements prices at $969 and in 1920-1921 it was $1,984, an increase of 104.78 per cent. In 1930 these 10 implements cost $1,686, or a decrease of 15.02 per cent. In 1932 they cost $1,665, or a decrease of 1.24 per cent. and in 1936 they cost $1,687, or an increase of 72.04 per cent. over 1914.

Therefore, he said the price of wheat in 1936 was 3.14 less than in 1914, while farm machinery had increased by 72.04 per cent. in the same years.

Reduction of farm implement costs would benefit all in the province, C. H. Tade, S.C., Athabasca, declared in seconding the motion. Criticism was directed at the overlapping in the farm implement industry and Mr. Tade declared that action to correct the situation was necessary for the benefit of agriculture.

JUDGMENT IS GIVEN HERE ON DEBT ACT

Statute Provides Creditor Must Get Permit Before Taking Action

Alberta's Debt Adjustment Act is purely a procedural statute and does not purport to alter in any way the substantive rights of the debtor or creditor. This was the unanimous decision of the court of appeal in a judgment written by Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing dismissing the appeal brought by A. L. Marks, Edmonton barrister, from two orders of Mr. Justice W. C. Ives in a land foreclosure action.

The court held that the statute merely provides that the rights of the creditor shall not be enforced against the debtor unless a permit is obtained from the Debt Adjustment Board.

MORTGAGEE

Mr. Marks, as second mortgagee, sought to set aside orders of Mr. Justice Ives dismissing an application for an order discharging an order nisi and setting aside a statement of claim on which the foreclosure was based on the ground that no permit had been obtained to commence or continue the action.

The second order appealed against was the foreclosure. This was attacked on the same ground and in addition on the ground that the trial judge should have stayed proceedings because mortgage land could not be sold at a fair value.

The court held that the commencement of an action or its continuance without a permit was not a nullity as the Debt Adjustment Board could, at any stage of the proceedings, give its consent and such consent related back and cured any defect arising out of the previous lack of a permit.

NOT DEBTOR

The court held that Mr. Marks was not a debtor as contemplated by the act, nor was he entitled as against another creditor nor as against his own debtor who seeks protection to invoke the protective sections of the act.

The court held that the statute did not infringe on any public right or public policy and therefore the waiver of the defendant is an effective waiver.

In dismissing the appeal against the foreclosure order the court held the appellant as a second mortgagee had the right to redeem and thereby to take advantage of a possible increase in farm values if he chose to do so, but it does not seem fair to compel the respondent to let matters stand in his own detriment and for the possible benefit of the appellant in the hope that prices of farm lands may rise in the indefinite future."

"Mr. Campbell has been very assiduous in this difficult task and has spent a great deal of time on it," Commissioner R. J. Gibb said. "He has been coming back to work again and again in the evenings and at week-ends."

James A. Henderson, city auditor who has been working with Mr. Campbell in the special audit, added praise of the thorough manner in which Mr. Campbell had traced every lead.

GUERNSEY CLUB HEARS TALK ON DAIRY CATTLE

A dozen members of the Alberta Breeder's Association, Edmonton division, braved the country roads to attend the first series of supper meetings held in the Royal George hotel cafe's banquet room Tuesday evening.

Addresses on technical aspects of the breeding of pure-bred cattle were heard from Dr. J. E. Bowstead, of the University of Alberta and J. R. Sweeney, deputy minister of agriculture.

Dr. Bowstead pointed out that experiments had shown that it was advisable to line breed, rather than out breed, as the former tended to produce cattle of more uniform type and gave better results. Mr. Sweeney outlined the history of Guernsey cattle. The addresses were followed by discussion.

Chairman of the meeting was J. H. McIntyre, North Edmonton, president, and he was assisted by Dr. S. W. D. Frith, 10711 81 avenue, secretary-treasurer. Breeders of dairy cattle interested in attending the meetings of the group are requested to communicate with either the president or the secretary.

Einstein's Theory May Not Be New Edmontonian Finds

A treatise written by John Newson, Charlottetown merchant, who died in 1916, has been recently discovered and is believed by those who have read it to contain practically the same theories as outlined by Prof. Albert Einstein in his now famous "Theory of Relativity." A copy of the treatise which was discovered recently, will be sent to Prof. Einstein for evaluation. If it proves to correspond with the theory of relativity, the Charlottetown merchant will have out-Einsteined Einstein by 30 years.

The treatise is now in the possession of a son of Mr. Newson, Fred Newson, 9635 107 street Edmonton, manager of the Blowey-Henry company. Another son, the late W. V. Newson, was deputy provincial treasurer of Alberta for more than 20 years.

Looking Them Over

By Jack Kelly

The Shape-up

Clean Battle

Hunter Paul

LAST night's final score of 4-1 strikes me as being a pretty fair summary of the difference between the E.A.C. and the Moose Jaw Canucks . . . judging them on this first game of their best of five series.

The Canucks proved much tougher than a lot of Edmontonians expected. They are a big team and their defence is real mean about letting opponents cross their blue line. It strikes me though that the Canucks are far more powerful defensively than they are offensively. They have a number of players that are mighty dangerous once they cross the blue line, but the team did not show the type of plays that will get past a heavy-hitting defence such as the E.A.C. has.

In fairness to the Moose Jaw boys it must be pointed out that injuries have weakened them. They weren't at their maximum power last night, they were on strange ice and over-cautious as they felt out the power of the Edmontonians. Thursday night may see a great improvement in these Canucks.

Heavy, gummy ice slowed up the game and undoubtedly threw both teams off their strides. The boys really had to huff and puff to push their skates.

Only One Penalty

LAST night's game was the cleanest title game I can remember seeing. Only one penalty was handed by the officials, Duke Keats of Edmonton and Puss Traub of Regina. That one went to a Canuck for a trip.

A while ago I jumbled out some hot words warning the E.A.C. that penalties and over-confidence were the biggest threats they had to worry about. Today I take real pleasure in making a profound salaam to the boys for the mastery over those dangers that they showed last night. They turned in a really fine performance. Coach Lefty Grove and all Edmontonians have just cause to feel a bit chesty over the way the Clubmen conducted themselves. It looks as if the boys have finally licked their big handicaps.

Paul Thompson Looks 'Em Over

PAUL THOMPSON, the Calgary puck wrangler who has just been acquired as manager of the Chicago Black Hawks, was a guest of honor in the press gondola last night. Paul was looking them over. He's out to round up replacements for the Hawks and he admitted that he liked the looks of several of the boys on the Canucks and E.A.C. Announcement from Chicago yesterday that the Hawks had asked waivers on Baldy Northcott, Russ Blinco, Earl Robinson, Bob Graeie, Jack Shill and Charley Mason shows that Skipper Paul is really in the ivory market with a big order to fill.

"Join the Hawks and hit the National League in one jump" is the sales talk that Thompson is handing likely looking prospects as he seeks from a dozen to 15 players for next year's' Hawk roster.

So far the Chicago skipper has only two players definitely arranged for. One is Billy Benson of the Winnipeg Monarchs and the other is Johnny Chad of the E.A.C. Benson is signed. Chad is on the Hawks' negotiation list.

"There isn't a man on the present Chicago lineup who is sure of his job for next season," said Thompson. "We need players, for the Hawks have gone to seed. We need them so badly that I am prepared to give every good player more than a fair chance of making the grade."

Paul saw the Brandon Elks, Manitoba junior champs, in action in their recent playoff series against Winnipeg Monarchs. He figures they will be mighty dangerous opponents for the E.A.C. if the two should meet, but doesn't think the Brandon lads have as much polish and finish as the Edmonton squad. This is the first definite comparison that has come through from a reliable expert with no personal interest in either team.

Edmonton Juniors Register 4-1 Win To Lead Western Canada Semi-Finals

These Stars Packed Winning Scoring Punch

GEORGE AGAR

BOB CARSE

ELMER KRELLER

BOB PENTLAND

Pictured above are the four snipers who sniped Edmonton Athletic Club to a 4-1 triumph against Moose Jaw Canucks last night in the first of a best-of-five series in western Canada junior playdowns.

Agar was first to snap home a goal and then Carse, Kreller and Pentland got one each in a third period rally. All fired many more shots which failed to escape eagle-eyed Johnny Jones in the Canuck goal.

By JACK DEAKIN

MOOSE JAW CANUCKS battled gallantly last night at the Arena and for two periods held in check Edmonton Athletic Club's great scoring power, but in the third frame this power broke loose and E.A.C. rolled on to a 4-1 triumph before 4,400 fans.

A three-goal, third period assault gave E.A.C. the winning margin in the opening game of a best-of-five western Canada semi-final in junior Memorial cup play. The second game will be played Thursday and the third on Saturday. All games are scheduled for the Edmonton Arena.

Canucks played a sound defensive game. They backchecked furiously and posted a rugged defence on the blue line despite the absence through illness of Walt Hamilton, captain and ace defenceman. Back of that defence was Johnny Jones, a goalie who drew ringing praise for his brilliant performance between the pipes for it was his play that kept Edmonton from piling up a much bigger score.

Jones can take the lion's share of honors for holding the E.A.C. power in the first frame. The five-foot seven, blonde thatched puck-stopping artist skated off with a clean record after 20 minutes of robust hockey. Bob Carse, Paul Steffes, Bruce MacKay and Elmer Kreller all tested Jones from close in, but repeatedly he outguessed them when almost certain tallies were in the offing.

AGAR GOT FIRST

A solo raid which carried George Agar straight through the middle, sent Edmonton into a goal lead in eight minutes of the middle period. Agar came roaring down the ice from his own blue line, skirted past one defenceman and fired a blistering shot to the corner of the cage before he was carried off his feet and into the boards. The shot was the first which escaped the eagle-eyed Jones.

Seven minutes later, as the E.A.C. defence hesitated momentarily, Walter and George Kemp started over the blue line on the left side. Walter dropped the puck back to George and the latter fired home a great shot which had Bill Drever, in the E.A.C. net, beaten all the way.

Throughout the second period Edmonton juniors were carrying the play to Moose Jaw, but despite the many well played and perfectly timed passing raids which carried them right up to the Moose Jaw goal, Jones held them to a 1-1 score at the end of the second frame.

JONES WAS TOUGH

Agar threatened to chalk up his second goal on the opening face-off in the third as he broke through the entire team. He had only Jones to beat, but Johnny Jones was E.A.C.'s toughest assignment most of the night and Agar went scoreless on this play.

Carse punched home what Jaier proved the winning goal to the two minute mark. Many of Carse's shots at Jones kicked aside by Jones up to this time, but when Bobby snared that loose biscuit in front of the net he let loose a drive which gave Jones no chance. Johnny Chad, who failed to show much of his burning speed and hard to the night, sent out the pass to Carse.

Edmonton clinched the winning honors in the last two minutes of the game. Kreller, who smitten by the Jones jinx for most of the game, fired the puck past the Moose Jaw goalie from a difficult angle and then Bob Pentland broke loose to outguess the hapless Moose Jaw goalie.

CARSE-MacKAY BEST

With the exception of Chad, who couldn't seem to turn on the heat as he has in the past few playoff games, Coach Grover Cruikshank were in good form. Outstanding players were the hard fighting and robust Carse, the winger Bruce MacKay and Bob Carse, both of whom played their best game of the season.

Pivots George Agar and Elmer Kreller were also hitting a fast clip. E.A.C.'s Maginot defence barrier was strong, most of the time, and held up well especially in the third frame.

The Canucks are expected to give E.A.C. a hard struggle before the best-of-five series is finished. With the series back on the squad and with one or two minor injuries in better repair this close checking, spirited squad will be hard to beat.

Kirkpatrick Sparks Great Lethbridge Rally

NELSON, B.C., March 22—Kimberley Dynamiters, British Columbia's Senior Amateur Hockey champions, last night won a 5-3 victory over Lethbridge Maple Leafs, Alberta's title-holders, in the first game of a best-of-five Allen Cup playoff series.

Harry Brown, Scotty Ness, and Hugo Mackie scored three goals for Kimberley. Allen Cup winners three years ago, before Lethbridge managed to sink a single counter. Then in the final period Kirkpatrick scored two and McIndoo one for Lethbridge while four Kimberley Mackie and Ness each scored another.

The Kimberley team, attempting to give the Kootenay league its third Canadian championship in the last four years, got a one-goal lead in the first period, and added two more counters in the second before the Alberta champions found their scoring eyes. The Trail Smoke-Eaters won the title last year and are now on a European tour.

NEVER THREATENED

In the final period, Lethbridge split six goals with the Dynamiters, but two of them were scored on thrilling power plays in the last minute and they never threatened Kimberley's lead.

The game opened a series for the right to enter the Western Canada finals against the winners of the other series between Port Arthur Bearcats, Thunder Bay-Manitoba representatives and Saskatoon Quakers who won the Saskatchewan title last night.

The second game in the Kimberley-Lethbridge series will be played at Lethbridge, Thursday night. The third game is scheduled for Calgary, Saturday.

Double Main Event Bout Friday Wrestle Feature

PROMOTER Mike Cutcher has a four-star main event bout scheduled for this week's weekly tournament wrestling card at the Memorial Hall. Topping the card will be Sailor Jack Morgan, who is rated highly and gets his first start against Patrick O'Dowdy and this pair will be taking the top bracket in Cutcher's double main event.

Sailor Morgan has a high rating from Portland. Herb Owens gives Morgan a grand recommendation while ring magazines also boost him high.

Following his stellar performances of last week, O'Dowdy was rated as the likely match for Morgan, O'Dowdy, despite the fact many fans will believe Davis the best, wrestled to a time limit draw against Davis last week. This draw decision thus boosted his rating highly.

And the mat fans' favorite, Dandy Dizzy Davis, will be back to make good on his boast that he would knock over the point leaders in the standings. Davis this week will meet Gust Johnston who rates the third place berth. Dizzy sent Lodwig scuttling and then drew with O'Dowdy. The Davis and Johnston bout will be the second bout in the double main.

A preliminary will open the card at 8:30 p.m.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Edmonton Soccer Council was held last night in the Memorial Hall, when the age limits for the various junior and juvenile leagues was gone into. After a lively discussion of the wishes of the various teams it was decided that the age limits be set as follows:

Juniors: Under 21 at time of registration. Juvenilles, under 18 at time of registration. Midgets under 16 at time of registration, and the Bantams, under 14, with a weight limit of 105 pounds.

Strong representations have been made to the D.F.A. for a game in the city with the touring Scots during their visit, and great hopes were held out that these will be successful.

Entries were received from two senior teams, and various teams in the junior groups, pointing to a very successful season.

Managers and secretaries who desire forms, rule books, etc., should get in touch with the secretary, Tom Fawcus, by phoning 27286 as soon as possible. All prospective teams should also get their entries in at once, as preparation of the league schedules will have to be completed by the opening date.

Joyful Bruins Make Mel Hill Hero of Night

NEW YORK, March 22. — The bitter weariness produced by 110 minutes of bruising hockey did not stop Boston Bruins from staging a wild celebration in their dressing room early this morning after beating New York Rangers 2-1 in a Stanley cCp hockey match.

Rookie Mel Hill, who scored the big goal to give the Ross reorganized Bruins a lead in the first two games series, was the centre of the jubilant celebration.

The 23-year-old sharpshooter from Saskatoon, winding up his first full year in the National Hockey League scarcely could get his uniform off for the whacks on the back and handshakes his thankful teammates and well-wishers forced on him.

Smiling wearily, Mel claimed no credit for the winning goal he shot after 59 minutes and 25 seconds of overtime.

"It was probably the greatest thrill of my life," he said, "but the credit goes to Bill Cowley. I couldn't have scored without Bill's pass."

ROOKIE WINS FOR BOSTON IN OVERTIME BATTLE

Long Playoff Game As Rangers Beaten

NEW YORK, March 22.—Mel Hill's goal on a perfect pass from Bill Cowley early today gave Boston Bruins a 2-1 victory over New York Rangers after 119 minutes and 25 seconds of play in the first game of their four of seven game Stanley cup series.

At 1:10 a.m.—35 seconds from the end of the third 20-minute period of overtime—Cowley flashed along the right boards and centered a beautiful high pass directly in front of Dave Kerr in the Ranger net.

Hill, 23-year-old left winger in his second year with Bruins, skated in and batted the puck cleanly past the Ranger goalie.

It was Cowley who scored the third period Boston goal that knotted the count at 1-1 and sent the match in 89 minutes, 25 seconds of extra-session play. Cowley's deflection of Dit Clapper's shot into the Ranger net matched a first period goal by Alex Shibicky.

Thus Bruins, winners of the National Hockey League championship, entrained for Boston with a one-game lead in the top-bracket series with Rangers, who finished the season in second place.

Not a penalty was called over the three periods of overtime, but in the regular 60 minutes penalties proved costly for both teams.

All but five seconds of Gordon Pettinger's penalty for tripping Lynn Patrick had expired when Shibicky, taking passes from Babe Pratt and Neil Colville, beat Goalie Frankie Brimsek cleanly from 25 feet out.

Nearly five minutes of the third frame had gone when the Bruins equalized. Ott Heller was in the penalty box for high-sticking Eddie Shore when Roy Conacher set up the puck for Dit Clapper who whipped a high pass from right wing across the front of the net and Cowley rushed in to bat it into the Ranger goal.

Claude Bourque Proves Hero As Frenchmen Triumph, 2-0

MONTREAL, March 22. — Little Claude Bourque made a brilliant debut to Stanley cup hockey last night by goaling Montreal Canadiens to a 2-0 victory over Detroit Red Wings as the National Hockey League clubs opened their best-of-three cup elimination series.

Plucked from amateur ranks this season, Bourque bested the veteran Cecil (Tiny) Thompson of the Wings as the flying Frenchmen established themselves favorites to win the series in Detroit. The teams move there for a second game Thursday night and another, if necessary, Sunday.

Habitants capitalized on a second period penalty to Defenceman Buck Jones of Wings. While he was serving time for tripping Hector (Toe) Blake the French ripped home a goal. When Jones returned the Wings still were disorganized and Canadiens hammered in another.

Blake, leading point maker in the just completed N.H.L. schedule, smashed in the first goal after taking a pass from little Johnny Gagnon.

A little less than four minutes later, Louis Trudel finished off a beautiful passing play with Gagnon, Lorrain and Polly Drouin by netting the puck from a few feet in front of the cage.

Late in the final chapter, Hooley Smith was given a misconduct penalty for making a threatening motion with his stick toward Referee Clarence Campbell after receiving a minor penalty. "FAREWELL to SPORT" by PAUL GALLICO

Why the Fans Roar
CHAPTER X (Concluded)

FOR instance, the so-called three strikes allotted the batter are a great snare and delusion. In point of fact it is only two strikes, for he is allowed to miss the ball only twice, but nobody but the batter ever thinks of that. The third time he misses it he is out. And yet there is magic in that number "three" and he strides to the plate with great confidence in his allotment of three strikes, a confidence that is only slightly dented upon the calling or taking of the first one, because, after all, there are still two more chances left. Two strikes and he is in for it. Now he must hit. The margin of possible failure has been wiped out. The pressure has suddenly become almost unbearable. And three chances had seemed such a safe margin when he first stepped up to the plate!

Paul Gallico

But note how the balance of power seesaws between pitcher and hitter. Batter up! The first one comes over—a ball. The batter smirks and pounds the plate with satisfaction. The advantage lies with him.

Now. If the pitcher throws another wide one it means that three out of his next four pitches must be in that groove or the batter walks. Very nice. And so the next throw will be kept very closely, because the chances are it will be a strike.

There is a little pressure on the pitcher and none whatsoever on the batter. He can afford to relax a little and let the pitcher commit himself on the next ball. He does. Ball two! Ha! Two balls and no strikes.

Lovely. The batsman begins to preen himself a little and the pitcher to perspire. That man serves ung 'em up from the little mound is in for it now. Strike one! Oh, oh! Now the batter is doing a little more thinking. The next one will be more of a problem. Shall he let it pass and hope it will be a third ball, putting the pitcher definitely on the spot, or should he reason that the latter will try to finish it over and get him in the hole! Ugh! Strike two! Swung at it and missed it by a foot. Guessed wrong. The pitcher fooled him for rather the catcher). He should have let it go. Outguessed.

BATTER SWEATS

Now the batter begins to sweat. The advantage lies with the enemy now. Two balls and two strikes and the pitcher has another ball to waste and can tease him with a bad one, or take a chance of breaking a fast one over the corner of the plate and getting him out. Hardly a moment ago the batter had the situation well in hand. Now he is in a mess. That confounded pitcher is just playing with him. Look at him grinning up there on the mound. All the confidence has oozed out of the hitter and into the hurler. Here it comes—zip! Has the umpire's right arm paralyzed? No! A ball! Three and two! Stitch again.

Now the pitcher is in deep trouble, although the batter is not feeling any too good about the situation. But the odds have passed to the batter because the pitcher must commit himself first. Once that ball leaves the fingers it is irrevocable. There is no calling it back or changing his mind.

True, the hitter has only that tenth of a second in which to make his decision as to what he will do with the next pitch, but in a game of such delicate fractions of time it is a considerable one. He knows that the pitcher cannot afford to walk him, especially if there is only one out, or bases, or men on base already. And if the bases are full the corresponding pressure upon the pitcher is all the greater.

DOWN THE FUNNEL

No, he must throw the ball down that nice, one-foot groove in which the bat may work to deadliest advantage. His only chance is to put so much spin, or "stuff," on the ball that when it meets the bat instead of rifling off into the outfield for a clean hit, it will deflect to the ground and give the fielders a chance to scoop it up, or glance off high into the air to be caught on the fly. But he might decide to risk it and make the eager hitter bite at one and strike out.

This goes on every minute of the game, and never seems to be twice the same, as the individual duels go on, inning after inning, changing in their nature and intensity according to the situation of the game. Pitching to batters with runners on base increases the pitcher's worries and problems a hundredfold. Batting in pinches piles pressure upon the batsmen. The situation is always different, and they drive on relentlessly, piling up and piling up to a certain climax as the final innings of the game are reached, increasing in intensity as the pitcher begins to tire and it is a question how long he can respond with accuracy and control to the dictates of the brain behind the bat.

FULL OF SURPRISES

The game is as full of surprises as a mystery play. The plot and its ending may be perfectly apparent up to the ninth inning and the batman at bat, and then with stunning suddenness change entirely and go on to a new ending. A pitcher will often be the hero of a closely fought battle in which his side leads 1-0 for eight innings and the rival batsmen have been looking stiller and stiller as they fanned the air, clawing at curves and drops, or standing with their bats on their shoulders while the ball broke across the plate for perfect called strikes. A batter in the hands of a masterful pitcher is a pitiful sight, anyway. He releases enough energy with each swing to cave in the side of a building and it does nothing but create a mild breeze as bat fails to meet ball. He swings himself clear off his feet and sit awkwardly in the dust from the force of his useless blow. Or he stands looking like a fig tarry with his ears burning a beautiful shade of cerise, while a perfect third strike burns past his bosom and the umpire calls him out and the watcher laughs sardonically and make unpleasant remarks out of the side of his mouth.

MOMENTS OF GLORY

These are moments of pure glory and unadulterated satisfaction for the pitcher and his battery mate and their adherents in the grandstands. Or the batter actually connects with the ball with a mighty swipe destined to rip the hide from it, but all that happens is that the ball takes one hop into the hands of the second baseman, who, to show his contempt for the puny effort, tosses the ball underhand to the first baseman.

Even in the ninth inning when an obviously antiquated pitcher, with two out and none on base, calls what was obviously a third strike a fourth ball, and a man reaches first base; there is no cause for alarm. The batters that day are lugging nonchalantly to the plate and have had no more than three safe hits the entire game. They might just as well have match-sticks in their fingers. And the next man up, the final hitter, is a weak sitter, relegated to the lower half of the batting order because he has no reputation or record as a dangerous slugger.

The crowd is already beginning to head for the exits, chuckling to themselves at the helplessness of the batters, admiring the skill and control of the pitcher. The catcher calls for a sizzler over the plate, loaded with spin. The weak hitter will ground it to a fielder and the game will be over.

In anticipation, the pitcher is already standing beneath a cooling shower, listening to the laudatory words of his comrades, and reading the "SHUT-OUT" headlines in the morning papers. Next year he must ask for a raise. He winds up—let the man on base go down to second if he wants to. Now he is in a knot. Now he unwinds. Now he pitches. And now, it happens.

ARM GOES DEAD

For, working silently and without warning, the poisons of fatigue in that arm that seemed to be made of steel and whipcord have begun their changes. The pitcher has given the same twist, the same flip of his wrist, the same leverage and follow-through with his body, only instead of slanting towards the batter with blinding speed, the ball comes floating down the groove, all slitches showing, and looking just a shade smaller than a full moon.

The batter doesn't have to be a Babe Ruth to nudge that one. He says: "Oh, baby, come to Papa!" laces it into the grandstand for a home run, and that is that.

The game is over. The pitcher has lost 3-1. All he could do was stand there with his hands on his hips, feeling his ears growing long and furry, watching the ball sail over the right field advertisement affixed to the top balcony. The fielders cannot even make a play for it. The right fielder dutifully has his rump pressed up against the right-field wall, but he would have to be a centipede feet tall to get his hands on that ball and he can do little more than wave it a regretful farewell as it disappears into the crowd.

HERO TO GOAT

There you have it. One tiny, uncontrollable slip and the hero has become the goat, and the villain. All the failures of the batters that day are forgotten and forgiven, wiped out by that one blow. The sports-writers, some of them, angrily tear sheets of paper from their typewriters, on which they have already begun to write: "But one of the most masterful exhibitions of plain and fancy hurling ever seen at the Polo Grounds, Joe Dokes, diminutive southpaw of the New York Giants, shut out the St. Louis Cubs with ease yesterday afternoon, letting them down with three hits," etc., etc., insert a fresh piece of paper, and start all over again: "Elmer Crabtree, veteran shortstop of the Cards, hasn't been hitting the length of his ears all year, but yesterday afternoon in the ninth inning of a brilliant pitchers' duel, he stepped to the plate with two out, the score 1-0 against him, and a comrade on base due to walk, and with the count two and two on him," etc., etc., etc.

There are hundreds of these situations brought on during the course of the game, and one could write endlessly of them. I don't mean to do so. But that is why I have liked baseball and always will. It is endlessly intriguing, and when the human element is added to the weird mechanics of the sport, the wise, foxy veterans, the brash, cocky young kids, the eccentric and screwy characters who play the game, it becomes truly a part of the national scene.

But I like, too, the freedom of baseball and the physical and emotional simplicity of the relationship between player and spectator. It is the only game in the world where the on looker is permitted to heckle, hoot, cheer, and advise the player to his heart's content. I am not particularly concerned whether it is sportsmanlike for an individual concealed beyond hope of detection in some section of the crowd, to howl, purple-faced, as a batter retires from the plate with his tail between his legs after having fanned in a clutch: "Oh, you bum! Go lay down, you bum, yah yeller. Oh, you bum!" but I know that it makes that abusive individual feel wonderful, because I have sat next to him and watched him wipe the sweat off his brow with a damp handkerchief after his tirade, till a bottle of pope to his lips, and then proceed him to take in the admiring glances of some of the less daring and articulate fans.

HE FEELS BETTER

He has established himself as an expert and a critic. He has hoisted something off his chest. I know him, the poor little man; not man, but mouse. In the office he sits under the thumb of his niggling superior and at home under both thumbs of his wife. Taxi-drivers curse him, and he scuttles out from beneath their wheels, waiters ignore him, policemen bawl him out, nobody loves him, nobody pays any attention to him. But in the ball park he can rise up on his hind legs and abuse a player. It's good for him, and it doesn't hurt the player any.

So, too, the crowd as a whole plays the role of Greek chorus to the actors on the field below. It reflects every action, every movement, every changing phase of the game. It keens. It rejoices. It moans. It jeers. It applauds and gives great swelling murmurs of surprise and appreciation, or finds relief in huge, Gargantuan laughs. I can stand outside of a ball park and listen to the crowd and come close to telling exactly what is happening on the diamond inside.

That quick, sharp explosive roar that rises in crescendo and is suddenly shut off sharply as though someone had laid a collective thumb on the windpipe of the crowd, followed by a gentle pattering of applause, tells its own story, of a briskly hit ball, a fielder racing for it, a runner dashing for the base. The throw nips the runner and the noise too. That steady "Clap-clap-clap-clap-clap . . ." Tight spot. Men on base, crowd trying to rattle the pitcher. A great roar turning into a groan that dies away to nothing—a potential home run, with too much alice on it, that just went foul. The crowd loves the actions of the players more than in any other game. It is a release and something of a purge. It is the next best thing to participation.

SCONA QUINTET WHIPS VICTORIA BY 37-9 SCORE

Loosing their full power, Strathcona High School's senior men's basketball quintet blasted out a 37-9 victory over Victoria in a challenge game. The South Side team took the lead from the opening jump and were never headed.

Victoria's boosters were troubled with an "off" night and were never able to send the leather through the loop in their usual style. The close checking of the Scona sextet was also responsible for holding the Vic quintet from the scoring column.

ONLY THREE

So close did the Scona boys check that only three Victoria players were able to score during the evening. Shorcliffe led the losers offensive with a five-point performance while Manson and Parnsforth tallied two points each.

Dave Webb and Frank Hazlett turned in high scoring performances on the Scona squad to collect 12 points and eight points respectively. Stan Hughes followed with six, Dick Bailey collected three, Jack Forger tallied three and Doug Flamme and Dave Hazlett notched two each.

LINEUPS AND SCORERS

Scona: Hughes (6), Hazlett (8), Webb (12), Forger (3), Cameron, Bailey (4), Flamme (2), Hazlett (2). Total 37.

Victoria: Shortcliffe (5), Ostrovsky, Nakamura, Pavies, Kushner, Manson (2), Davies, Myers, Parnsforth (2). Total 9.

Spotlight Shifts To Grand National

LONDON, March 22.—While everyone was busier today discussing the position in Central Europe than who is going to win the Grand National, there was little doubt that when Friday comes along millions of people the world over will focus attention on the few miles of country close by Liverpool.

Women owners again hold the strong hand although Mrs. Marion Scott's Battleship, winner of last year's race, has retired. The American owner will be represented this year by War Vessel. Many observers say Miss Dorothy Paget has a better horse, in Kilstar, the 7 to 1 favorite, than Golden Miller ever was.

The famous old-time actress, Miss Camile Clifford of gaiety fame, now Mrs. Evans, has Royal Mail, only previous winner of the National, in tip-top condition. Other opinion favors Mrs. Smith-Bingham's Brendan's Cottage, a 20 to 1 shot.

But the men owners won't let the women have matters all their own way. If C. McNally's Royal Danielli, 100 to 9 choice which finished second last year, will make a great bid and Sir Alexander Maguire's Workman 10 to 1 second favorite, which came home third last year will be a stout contender.

So, too, the crowd as a whole plays the role of Greek chorus to the actors on the field below. It reflects every action, every movement, every changing phase of the game. It keens. It rejoices. It moans. It jeers. It applauds and gives great swelling murmurs of surprise and appreciation, or finds relief in huge, Gargantuan laughs. I can stand outside of a ball park and listen to the crowd and come close to telling exactly what is happening on the diamond inside.

That quick, sharp explosive roar that rises in crescendo and is suddenly shut off sharply as though someone had laid a collective thumb on the windpipe of the crowd, followed by a gentle pattering of applause, tells its own story, of a briskly hit ball, a fielder racing for it, a runner dashing for the base. The throw nips the runner and the noise too. That steady "Clap-clap-clap-clap-clap . . ." Tight spot. Men on base, crowd trying to rattle the pitcher. A great roar turning into a groan that dies away to nothing—a potential home run, with too much alice on it, that just went foul. The crowd loves the actions of the players more than in any other game. It is a release and something of a purge. It is the next best thing to participation.

FUNNY GAME

Have you ever had a feeling that there was something funny about tennis as it is played in polite company? Gallico has suffered from the same feeling and in tomorrow's installment of "Farewell to Sport," he tells you frankly what he thinks of the game—as player and one who has watched the world's best from the press box for many years. It is a chapter that is bound to start plenty of arguments.

Special Phone Facilities On Royalty Train

Technicians of the Alberta government telephones are working on arrangements whereby the train of Their Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth will travel across the Dominion will have special telephone facilities. J. D. Baker, deputy minister of telephones, stated Wednesday.

With the latest equipment, plans are being advanced whereby their Majesties will be able to confer from their train with any part of the civilized world. Calls can be made while the train is in motion through special facilities which will connect phone lines on the train with those alongside the tracks, while when stops are made within the province, men attached to the train will stand by to hook up wires with land along the track.

Land wires will carry the Royal party conversations to Drummondville, Que., from which point they will be transmitted by short wave, overseas.

which might turn up in the course of normal work.

Members of the committee, who discussed proposals were Ald. E. Brown, chairman, Alderman Paterson, Sidney Parsons, F. C. Casselman and Hugh John Macdonald.

No purchases should ever be made by or for the city without written and approved requisitions, the committee agreed and laid down the principle that no civic employee should be allowed to buy anything through the city or in the name of the city, eliminating a practice of buying at wholesale prices.

FACES CHARGES

As a result of disclosures of the investigation, H. W. Rattenbury, city purchasing agent and superintendent of the stores and works department, was dismissed and at present is facing trial on charges of theft of $1,700. He has pleaded not guilty and elected for trial by judge in supreme court. Albert Dutton, fire chief for 10 years, also was dismissed.

In a special report to the committee at Tuesday's meeting, Mr. Campbell said, "It would appear to be well established that Mr. Rattenbury played a lone hand and that no other present civic employee was implicated."

Through a coincidence, Mr. Campbell said, Mr. Rattenbury had become both purchasing agent and superintendent of the stores and works department. This move was made in 1918 as an economy.

While a purchasing agent's main duty was to criticize and check purchases of city departments, Mr. Campbell said, his dual post placed him in the position of criticizing his own purchases.

CLERICAL STAFF

Mr. Campbell told the committee in his report that Mr. Rattenbury had no clerical assistant until 1922 when A. Seston, a laborer was placed in his office. He was succeeded in 1930 by C. A. Lee, a truck driver and former assistant in a warehouse. Mayor Fry mentioned that the committee that Mr. Low had a clerical background, acquired before he came to Canada. There were economy moves, he said.

"Mr. Seston especially did not know anything about books, so things were allowed to drift," Mr. Campbell said.

"These may have been the immediate causes," he added, "but it appears that a general tightening up of the accounting system of the city must be made. My opinion is that the irregularities which are possible now because there was no proper system, but that the system was not enforced."

The originally devised system had its safeguards, Mr. Campbell said, but a great many were allowed to fall into disuse, partly because they were burdensome.

REQUISITIONS

Mr. Campbell proposed and was supported by the committee in his suggestion that all requisitions from within the city for goods from city stock should give the quantity of stock on hand. A number of detailed recommendations were referred to commissioners.

Cheques for purchases from the city should be made out to the city and not to individuals, the committee agreed, referring to several cheques made out in Rattenbury's name which he admitted cashing for his personal use.

Another change in the system which would make it similar to that now in use at the street railway department, would be to make it impossible for a storekeeper to receive cash. This was agreed to by the committee.

The committee felt that an independent five-year audit of all civic accounts, proposed by Ald. J. H. Ogilvie, was not necessary.

UNEMPLOYED PARADE HERE TO BUILDINGS

given to Dr. Cross, but he declined to be interviewed.

Speakers then explained the situation in the crowd. They scored the action of the government in using the "Mounted Police— whom the yhave howled down for the past two years—in order to prevent the people from making their demands known to their elected representatives."

The crowd cheered speakers who stated that the government's relief policy was the same one as had been put into force eight years ago "by the forces of reaction" and it "is high time it was changed."

M.L.A.'S SPEAK

Members of the legislature were invited to address the group, but the only one to avail themselves of the opportunity were S. A. G. Barnes, M.L.A. for Edmonton, and A. E. MacLellan, M.L.A. for Innisfail. Both stated that they had worked hard for the unemployed. "Now is the time to bring your wishes to the attention of the government—before the new regulations are passed. Once they become law there is nothing you can do about it," said Mr. Barnes.

Mr. Barnes communicated with Dr. Cross in regard to the group and received a written reply which stated, "When they want a meeting with me they can get in touch with me in my office and do not need a go-between."

Rev. J. T. Stephens of the Goodwill Mission, explained the statements he had made in Ontario which later brought him sharp rebuke from Alberta's Premier. He stated the government for having deceived the electorate. He also advised the group to realize that the RCMP. "are merely doing their duty, and they will treat you fairly —so don't judge them harshly."

SPOKESMEN

Speakers included Douglas Johnson, Edmonton Labor Temple; Jack Nicholson, Jack Corrigan, Joe Honie, Earl Campbell, Pat Burke, Joe Grew, John Dydy, Bill Bundy and others.

The paraders dispersed quietly after they had been advised by Mayor Fry that it was their duty to stand behind your joint action committee and work for better conditions."

They carried only one banner which bore the name of the group and the slogan "Work With Wages or Adequate Relief."

city should be made out to the city and not to individuals, the committee agreed, referring to several cheques made out in Rattenbury's name which he admitted cashing for his personal use.

Another change in the system which would make it similar to that now in use at the street railway department, would be to make it impossible for a storekeeper to receive cash. This was agreed to by the committee.

BRITAIN MAY CALL SPECIAL LEAGUE MEET

Would Discuss German March Toward Europe Domination

LONDON, March 22.—The British government said Germany had threatened Lithuania with action "in a military sense" if she refused to surrender Memel to her today.

Sir Samuel Hoare, home secretary, made it clear in the House of Commons that the British government's information was that if Lithuania had rejected Berlin's ultimatum Germany intended to occupy all of Lithuania, not Memel alone.

Speaking as substitute for Prime Minister Chamberlain, Sir Samuel said:

COUPLED WITH THREAT

"The Lithuanian minister for foreign affairs, who was recently in Berlin, received while there demands of the German government for immediate cession to Memelland to the Reich, coupled with a threat that in the event of resistance or appeal for support elsewhere the matter would be dealt with, not diplomatically but in a military sense."

Previously Sir Samuel had told the house the government was considering calling a special meeting of the League of Nations council to consider Germany's rapid expansion, continue today by the absorption of Memel, yielded by Lithuania.

A government ship, Patrick Munro, disclosed Great Britain is conducting military staff talks through military attaches, with France, Russia, Denmark, Sweden, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Turkey, Greece and the Netherlands.

Mr. Munro answered "no" to a question by Josiah Wedgwood, Labor, as to whether "economic and military staff talks will be initiated with the United States concerning supply they could make to this country and our allies in case of war being forced upon us."

Sir Samuel substituted for Prime Minister Chamberlain in replying to questions following a meeting of the cabinet at which it was decided to take no action because of Germany's acquisition of Memel.

In reply to Philip Noel Baker, Labor, the home secretary said he had no information "Regarding statements that 20,000 Czechs were now in concentration camps."

REPLIES RECEIVED

Prime Minister Chamberlain and his ministers had before them replies from several European governments to a British proposal for an anti-aggression declaration. The replies general called for indications from Great Britain that she is prepared to give more than moral support to any move against German expansion.

A government spokesman made it clear the proposed policy would not apply to the Memel surrender.

NO OBLIGATIONS

"Britain has no obligations to help" Lithuania in the event of "aggression of any kind" on Memel, he said.

Great Britain has asked France, Russia and Poland to initial the anti-aggression declaration to be joined later by Rumania, Turkey, Greece, Yugoslavia, Finland, and other nations if possible. The declaration would bind the signatories to consult in a group in the event of another Hitler step against non-Germanic people.

King, President Toast Friendship

LONDON, March 22. — King George VI and President Albert Lebrun of France toasted Anglo-French friendship last night in speeches stressing mutual "ideals of justice and freedom" at a brilliant state banquet in Buckingham Palace.

The French president and Madame Lebrun arrived here Tuesday on a state visit repaying that made to Paris last summer by the King and Queen. The trip assumed unusual significance in view of the current European crisis.

The King, drinking to the health of President and Madame Lebrun, said:

"I firmly believe that the cooperation of our two governments has rendered and will continue to render a great service to the cause of peace."

President Lebrun in replying declared the harmony between Paris and London "symbolizes the friendship of two nations whose destinies are neighbors on so many points of the world and whose moral frontiers blend together."

King George, wearing the full dress uniform of an admiral of the fleet, and his guest

IDENTITY OF INTERESTS

"Thirty-five years ago your country and mine discovered that as geography had made them neighbors, so providence intended them to be close friends.

"United as they are in their devotion to the rule of law, our peoples are also conscious of the identity of interests making the welfare of each a common concern to both.

"We fully recognized the difficulties which lie before us, but I am convinced that we may both look forward with faith and with hope to the future, conscious of our strength and of those immortal qualities of mind and spirit which distinguish our peoples and which manifest themselves above all in the hour of danger."

CONFIDENCE VOICED

President Lebrun, addressing the King as "sire," voiced confidence "English and French statesmen will help the world to surmount the troubled period which it is going through."

Queen Elizabeth, who sat next to President Lebrun, wore a diamond tiara and a gown of white satin and lace trimmed with pearls and gold. The banquet, in the white and gold ball room, was attended by 185 guests.

Londoners shouted an enthusiastic welcome as the Lebruns arrived.

NOISY DEMONSTRATIONS

The royal welcome was backed by noisy demonstrations by the normally staid population massed along the route to Buckingham Palace, where the French president and Madame Lebrun will be guests during their three-day stay.

"Vive Lebrun," and "Vive La France," were shouted by thousands as the Lebruns drove with the King and Queen in scarlet and gold carriages through streets thick with flags.

The throng in front of Buckingham Palace swept through the police cordon and rushed across to the closed gates of the palace. There were cries:

"We want the King! We want the president!"

In response to the cheers the King and Queen and Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose appeared on the palace balcony with the visitors.

Blockade Running Sea Captain Tells Spanish War Horrors

VANCOUVER, March 22. — A blockade-running sea captain, who, in two adventure-filled years has been through 68 bombing raids in Spanish Loyalist ports, has arrived in Port of Vancouver.

He is Capt. W. H. Gould, master of the British freighter "Hadleigh."

BOMBS LIKE RAIN

The veteran mariner told stories of streets running red with blood as Nationalist planes dropped bombs on helpless Barcelona.

"That was last March," he said. "Barcelona was bombed 34 times in 17 hours while I was there. Thousands of helpless people were killed."

Capt. Gould spent two years blockade running. His vessel carried gasoline and coal to Barcelona from English ports.

Danger is an old story to Capt. Gould.

"I served through the Great War aboard the 'Glen Ogle' and 'Glen Stray.' Both were torpedoed and sunk.

"I was aboard a ship in Halifax harbor when the big explosion occurred. My ship was loaded with 2,000 tons of live shells.

"Another ship I served aboard—'Glen Arliney'—was destroyed by fire at Shanghai.

"But all these were child's play compared to Barcelona.

"I hope I never see such things again."

At one time, the captain said, four bombs dropped within 80 feet of his ship.

BLOWN FROM DECK

"Three exploded, demolishing the quay, and tearing off gear and tackle aboard the vessel.

"The blast blew me from the deck into my cabin. A man who had been standing on the quay was blown in with me."

Even today Capt. Gould declares he awakens in the night to smell the acrid smoke of high explosives, see the night fires and hear the screams.

He is glad to be back on a routine cargo run.

The captain hopes to end his days carrying grain from here to England, he says.

Tiny Memel Nazi Victim

"Memel next," whispers Berlin. And Ernst Neumann, above, Nazi leader of 130,000 Germans in that district of Lithuania, urges a Reich protectorate for his followers.

FIRST OFFICER PRINCESS PATS TO VISIT HERE

First commanding officer of the famous Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, the first Canadian unit to reach France during the Great War, Lt.-Col. Hamilton Gault, D.S.O., E.D., will renew friendships with his old comrades, not only of his regiment, but of the Canadian Corps, during the coming summer, it was announced on Wednesday.

Now a resident of England, he will visit Canada to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the formation of the "Pats."

This famous regiment was raised immediately after war broke out in August, 1914.

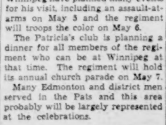

Celebration of the anniversary will be observed in May of this year, centreing around the anniversary of the Battle of Frezenberg which is observed each year as a regimental holiday.

Lt.-Col. Gault is now honorary colonel of the regiment and he plans to observe the anniversary visiting the regiment.

Headquarters of the regiment in Winnipeg have planned many events for his visit, including an assault-at-arms on May 5 and the regiment will troops the color on May 6.

The Patricia's club is planning a dinner for all members of the regiment who can be at Winnipeg at that time. The regiment will hold its annual church parade on May 7.

Many Edmonton and district men served in the Pats and this area probably will be largely represented at the celebrations.

Yukon Southern's Barkley-Grow has been equipped with skis and will probably make its first flight north in regular service this Sunday, Grant McConachie, president, said Wednesday. The plane has been fitted on skis and performs better than was expected, he reports. The skis are of the easily detachable kind so that it can be changed from wheels to skis or back again in about 15 minutes.

Al Brown, Mackenzie Air Service, arrived at Port Radium about noon Wednesday. Bob Randall is expected in this afternoon.

Mother Collapses While Testifying Daughter's Death

Completing her evidence in the damage action brought by her husband, John Batog, Tawatinaw district farmer, against William L. Mundy, employee of the provincial department of agriculture, Mrs. S. Batog collapsed in the witness box and had to be carried from the court room Tuesday.

She recovered after being given first aid by court orderlies and friends, but had to be assisted from the precincts of the court house to a waiting car at the noon adjournment.

Mr. Batog is seeking $10,600 damages for the loss of his daughter, who died as the result of injuries received when struck by an automobile operated by the defendant. The accident occurred on the highway two miles north of Tawatinaw on June 15 last. The hearing is proceeding before Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing.

Railways Come Under Tax For Express Trade

Amendments to the Corporations Taxation Act now before the Alberta legislature will make the tax on express companies payable by railway companies carrying on the business of express company, it was revealed Wednesday.

The tax payable by grain companies shall be in respect of the 12 months ending July 1 and payable on Sept. 1 of each year, it is stated in one section of the bill. Production taxes payable by grain companies is permitted when the company's income for a year does not exceed $2,000.

Another section is made in returns to be made by companies and a new section establishes the method of computing the tax of a company whose capital is in money other than Canadian money or that of the United States.

The capital of the company will be determined by computing the foreign money total on a Canadian money basis and where this cannot be done the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may determine the exchange value.

Widows' Relief Act Ruling Is Given By Court

Benefits given under the Widows' Relief Act, 1922, cannot be contracted out of either directly or indirectly by a widow. This was the decision of a majority judgment of the Alberta court of appeal written by Mr. Justice Frank Ford in dismissing the appeal of the Montreal Trust Company, as executors of the Thomas Rist estate, against an order of Mr. Justice Howson giving Rist's widow an allowance out of his estate.

The order was appealed on the ground that under a separation agreement Mrs. Rist received more from her husband than she would have received had he died intestate.

The majority held that although a widow could contract under the Intestate Succession Act she could not directly or indirectly contract herself out of benefits accruing under the Widows' Relief Act.

Out of every ton of coal bought for domestic use, one twentieth escapes unconsumed up the chimney in the form of soot, etc.

ROME COUNCIL STANDS FIRMLY BEHIND HITLER

Fascist Body Warns Democracies Against United Front

ROME, March 22.—The Fascist Grand Council stood firmly today behind Reichsfuehrer Hitler's newest partition of territory in central Europe and warned the democracies a retaliatory united front against the Totalitarian states would be a harbinger of war.

The declaration of Fascism's supreme policy-forming organ made plain the Rome-Berlin axis had withstood the strain of its northern menace's sudden increase in power.

It did not give any hint of the measures Italy might take to win corresponding advantages by pressing its colonial claims on France.

FULL ADHERENCE

A brief statement said the council declared its "full adherence to the policy of the Rome-Berlin axis," and said the action was taken "in the face of the threatened formation of a 'united front of the democracies associated with Bolshevism' against the authoritarian states."

It described this as "a united front which is not the harbinger of peace, but of war."

The council's action ended speculation over Italy's position regarding Germany's absorption of Bohemia and Moravia of old Czecho-Slovakia.

As for Italian colonial claims against France, Fascists now expect Il Duce will tell them his plans in this direction in a speech next Sunday celebrating the 20th anniversary of the founding of the Fascist movement.

Premier Mussolini gave the council a detailed exposition of the international situation.

Among those who joined in the discussion after Il Duce's speech were Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano and Count Dino Grandi, ambassador to London.

RESOLUTION ADOPTED

When the discussion was finished the council adopted the following resolution:

"The Fascist grand council, in the face of threatened formation of a 'united front of the democracies associated with Bolshevism' against the authoritarian states—a united front which is not the harbinger of peace but of war—declares that what has happened in Central Europe has its origin in the Versailles treaty and reaffirms especially in this moment its full adherence to the policy of the Rome-Berlin axis."

The entire council rose as Mussolini read the resolution which said the watchword of Fascism was now as always, "Believe, Obey, Fight."

The council met in the midst of military preparations as a result of the threatening European picture and while newspapers were stressing the "European war atmosphere."

Through The Mill

The cadi cut short a very interesting tale of the modus operandi of a pair of house prowlers in police court Wednesday because he decided the details weren't in the least bit relevant to the charge of vagrancy of which the pair in the dock stood accused.

They pleaded guilty to vagrancy. Detective Frank Kingsett was about to explain that the two were in the habit of loitering with the intent on the eaves of the city newspapers and discovering what people were apt to be out. But this point the cadi cut him short. You guess the rest.

One of the two was 21 years of age and already had a list of 21 convictions to his credit. He was taken out of circulation for the next five months. The other, with three convictions, two of which carried four charges, drew only four months.

"You'll both be out in time to get jobs harvesting," explained the cadi.

Brother-In-Law Of Horace Reid Dies In South

Word was received Wednesday morning by H. A. Reid of the death of his brother-in-law, Major D. H. Bowles, at Lethbridge Tuesday.

Major Bowles was well-known in Edmonton. He was a member of the staff of the Dominion land branch, and later was transferred to the staff of the provincial government when the natural resources were handed over to provincial administration.

He went overseas with the 31st Battalion and was wounded in the Somme offensive in Edmonton subsequent to the Great War.

He is survived by his widow, at Lethbridge, and by Monireal, a son in the Royal Air Force in England, and two daughters at Toronto.

Two New Cases Scarlet Fever Are Reported

Two additional cases of scarlet fever were reported at the isolation hospital, admitted Tuesday. They were a 10-year-old boy and a young woman, both city residents.

On Monday a 10-year-old girl from Tawatinaw who was taken to the General hospital for an appendicitis operation was discovered to have scarlet fever and removed to the isolation hospital.
